Levine Says He'll Fly Back to U. S. in Columbia

MARION RAIL WORKER KILLED

FRENCH PILOT TO MAKE TRIP; NAME WITHHELD

American Makes Announcement Today at Press Luncheon in Paris

SEEK NAME OF FLIER

Report Aviator Not Definitely Selected; Chamberlin Returning by Boat

Paris, July 6—Charles A. Levine, New York-to-Germany flier, announced at a luncheon given by the press today that he will leave for the United States in the monoplane Columbia with in a few days, accompanied by a French pilot whose name he did not reveal but which will be announced later.

Levine startled even his own wife when, at the last moment he jumped into the Bellanca plane at Roosevelt field and made the flight from New York to Hottbus, Germany, with Clarence O. Chamberlin. Whether he has received his wife's sanction to make the return journey to America he did not reveal.

"We have decided on the pilot on this return flight to the United States, said Levine, but I cannot announce his name for a few days.

Returning by Boat

"We thought it would be appropriate that one of France's sons should be the first to make a Paris-to-New York flight."

Clarence Chamberlin, pilot of the Bellanca plane which he flew with Levine to Germany, will return to New York on one of the big liners.

Despite Levine's announcement that a French pilot would take the Columbia across the Atlantic, it was learned that he has not yet definitely found a pilot. He has been in negotiation with Capt. Pelletier D'Oisy, noted French flier who made the flight from Paris to Tokio in 1925.

Tarascon Not Interested

In some quarters it was believed that M. Tarascon, another noted French ace who last year planned a non-stop transatlantic flight with Captain Coli, Captain Nungesser's companion on his ill-fated attempt in May, would be chosen by Levine.

M. Tarascon, however in an interview with International News Service, virtually eliminated himself from the project.

"It would be imprudent to attempt to fly the Columbia to New York," M. Tarascon declared. "The plane has not sufficient flying radius, it would be practically certain to be forced to land in Newfoundland.

"I, for one, am not interested in the project."

COMMUNIST SECRETARY IS SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

Assassin Believed by Soviet To Be Member of Monarchist Party

Warsaw, Poland, July 6—M. Nomsky, secretary of the Leningrad Communists Council, was shot and seriously wounded by an assassin, according to information received here today from Moscow through the Soviet Legation circles.

The assassin was not identified but is believed to be connected with the Monarchist party.

A large number or arrests were made following the shooting.

M. Noimsky was taken to the hospital where it was said he would probably die.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH

Former Ohio Sheriff Near Death at Steubenville After Attack

Steubenville, July 6—William Chalfant, 60, former Jefferson County sheriff, was near death here today following an attack by an unknown assailant, who shot from ambush yesterday while Chalfant was walking through a wood near Gouldsmill, just west of Steubenville.

After dragging himself for miles, to finally reach a farmhouse Chalfant collapsed.

A sheriff's posse is searching for the gunman, believed to be a moonshiner.

Byrd is Decorated With French Legion of Honor

PARIS, July 6—In the name of the French Government, Premier Poincare today decorated Commander Richard E. Byrd as an officer in the Legion of Honor.

The premier congratulated Byrd and his three co-fliers on their flight from New York to Ver-Sur-Mere, France, terming it one of the crowning achievements of the age.

Sheldon Whitehouse, United States charge d'affairs, was among those present when Poincare bestowed the coveted honor on Byrd.

Byrd, his pilot, Bert Acosta G. O. Noville and Bernt Balchen visited the premier shortly after breakfast. Then stay with the premier, who is far behind on his official duties, was brief.

Denies Flight Plan

The medal was pinned on Byrd at 9:30 a. m. Byrd's decoration is a grade higher than that given Charles A. Lindbergh, New York to-Paris flier, because, it was explained, Byrd is a naval officer, older than Lindbergh, and already is the wearer of several high decorations.

In decorating Byrd, Poincare gave the commander the usual kiss on both cheeks.

Balchen told International News Service that there is no truth in the report that he is planning a flight from New York to Oslo, Norway next year. Oslo is Balchen's home and his aged mother now lives there.

"I never thought of such a thing," said Balchen.

Postpone Flight

Balchen and Noville have postponed the flight they had planned to make today to Amsterdam. It is probable

Marion County Farm Land Valued at $62.62 An Acre, Recorder's Report Shows

Value of Marion County farm land averages $62.62 an acre, according to official figures appearing in the annual report of County Recorder Charles E. Smith, which was completed yesterday and forwarded to the secretary of state.

This is an increase of almost $10 an acre over the average value as shown by the preceding year's report, the figure at that time being $53.32.

The average is obtained from record of properties sold during the year ended June 30, the valuations being taken from amounts stated in the deeds. The large majority of deeds stipulate only the nominal $1 consideration authorized where persons involved in the transactions do not wish to disclose the actual consideration.

There were 61 transfers of farm properties for other than the $1 consideration during the last year, representing $4,867.93 acres valued at $304,928.59.

1,504 Deeds Recorded

Deeds recorded, including those for $1 considerations totaled 1,504. This included the 61 transfers for considerations in excess of $1, 196 farm transfers of the $1 class covering 17,974.50 acres, 124 city, village and town lots valued at $322,918.27 and 1,128 transfers of 1,827 lots listed in the $1 class.

The entire acreage as shown by all deeds totaled 22,842.23.

Mortgages issued during the last year exceeded mortgage cancellations by $864,153.91. The report for the preceding year showed excess of new mortgages over cancellations totaling $1,172,980.81.

The report includes all mortgages except those on railroad properties.

Farm Mortgages

Mortgages on agricultural lands totaled 200, being on 16,461.86 acres and covering loans amounting to $820,-862.47. On city, town and village lots there were 1,465 mortgages amounting to $3,461,202.44, making a grand total on both urban and rural properties of 1,665 mortgages amounting to $4,-281,924.91. In the preceding year there were 1,505 mortgages totalling $4,169,371.38.

Mortgage cancellations on agricultural lands last year totaled 143. They included 12,382.52 and covered loans amounting to $702,335.06. On city, town and villages properties there were 1,162 cancellations amounting to, $2,-615,455.91, the loans being on 1,611 lots. This made a total of 1,305 cancellations amounting to $3,317,770.97, in the preceding year there were 1280 cancellations amounting to $2,986,-410.57.

62 Leases Recorded

Leases on 62 properties, all in the city of Marion or towns and villages, were recorded last year, an increase of 13 over the preceding year.

The report as a whole shows that real state activities in the year ending June 30, 1927, registered a small increase over the preceding year's record.

WHEAT HARVESTING TO START HERE NEXT WEEK

Crop Promising, Grainmen Say; Corn and Oats Growing Favorably

Cutting and harvesting of wheat in Marion County is scheduled to start not later than the first of next week in many districts.

The wheat crop this season, although probably not quite as large as that of last year because of continued heavy rains during the planting season, promises to test well, according to reports from Marion mills.

Despite the unfavorable weather during planting season, however, a number of communities report as great an acreage in wheat this year as last.

The corn crop in Marion County, greatly benefited by the hot dry weather last week, has taken new life and is "coming along in fine shape," farmers state. The oats crop also is probably better than that of last year, it is said.

STATE BAR MEET

Criminal Law Recodification To Come Before Session

Cedar Point, July 6—The Ohio State Bar Association opened its annual convention here today.

Recodification of the Criminal Laws will be one of the principal subjects to come before this year's meeting, including several changes suggested by Judge Manuel Levine, of the Cleveland Court of Appeals when bar association committeemen and a special state legislature committee met in Columbus early last month. These changes, it is said, would make it more difficult for justice to miscarry through tender-hearted juries than at present.

A meeting of the executive committee was to be held at noon today, followed by committee reports in the afternoon.

The convention is to continue through Thursday and Friday.

FOUR ARE DROWNED

Airplane in Which Men Were Passengers Falls Into Lake

Seattle Wash, July 6—Four men, all believed to be residents of California, drowned here when an airplane in which there were passengers fell 1,-000 feet into Lake Washington.

The dead: Harry Johnson, pilot; John Dach, Fred Stancliff and Robert Wolin.

Three of the bodies have been recovered by the Seattle harbor patrol which still is hunting the body of Dach. An auto belonging to Dach bearing a California license has been found.

According to persons who were on the shore when the plane fell, the machine was flying over the lake and suddenly dived downward, entirely out of control. The cause of the accident is not known.

MAN DEAD, WOMAN NEAR DEATH AFTER SHOOTING

Bellefontaine, July 6—Mrs. Rose Pickering, 35, a divorcee, was reported near death in a hospital here today, with a bullet wound through her body, and John Christian, a rejected suitor, in dead, as the result of a shooting at the woman's home last night.

Christian came to the home and shot the woman, after she had called police earlier in the evening, complaining that he was annoying her.

He then turned the gun upon himself and died instantly. Mrs. Pickering has six children.

DEATH CLOSES MARION MAN'S QUEST FOR JOB

David H. Davidson, 58, Dies After Heart Attack While Seeking Work

STRICKEN AT QUARRY

Without Employment Since Last November; Funeral To Be Friday

Death brought to a sudden close an eight months' quest for employment yesterday afternoon when David H. Davidson, 58, of 380 Silver st. died of heart trouble while seeking work at the Evans Stone Quarry, two miles north of the city. The man died almost instantly.

Without work since last November Davidson left his modest home yesterday shortly after dinner to continue his search for a job. He had just reached the quarry and was inquiring for the employment official when swift death overtook him.

Born in Gallia County

Davidson was born in Alice Gallia County, on March 24 1869. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Davidson, both deceased. In 1889 he was united in marriage to in Gallia County to Miss Mary Strouse, who survives.

Aside from his widow Mr. Davidson is survived by two sons David, at home and James of 474 Thompson st. one daughter, Mrs. Ethel Harbolt Avondale st., and two sisters, Mrs. Henry Hooter and Mrs. Emma Shively, of Alice.

Funeral services will be held here at the home Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. William Bowman, pastor of the Toledo Avenue Mission, will have charge of the services. Burial will take place in Marion Cemetery.

PROBE OF LIQUOR RAIDS IN DAYTON IS ORDERED

Federal Judge Announces Investigation After Alleged Irregularities Are Revealed

Dayton, July 6—Preparations for a thorough investigation into all phases of the raids conducted here by federal dry enforcement officers Saturday night, Sunday and Monday were being made today.

Federal Judge Benson W. Hough announced that the investigation would be conducted and that all evidence of irregularities by the raiding officials would be submitted to the federal prohibition department at Washington, D. C.

Decision to conduct the probe was made after complaint had been filed with Judge Hough by Attorney Irving Delcamp of this city who charged that many Dayton men and women were improperly arrested, spirited to jails outside of Dayton and held 10 hours, or more, without opportunity to consult with counsel. Delcamp stated that no charges were filed against some of the prisoners and that a number of them were held in prison 75 hours.

Judge Hough directed attention to the fact that federal prisoners can not legally be held more than 48 hours without a charge being filed against them.

Circumstances surrounding the issuance of warrants in connection with the raids may also be probed, it was indicated. At least one local official of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League may be involved in the proposed investigation, it was stated. Alleged information, gathered by Anti-Saloon League authorities, was turned over to federal dry officials prior to the raids, it was claimed.

Counsel for persons arrested by the raiders claimed that this alleged information, together with private purchases of liquor by "under-cover" agents for prohibition enforcement authorities, did not legalize the arrests.

INVESTIGATE SHOOTING

Akron, July 6—Police and detectives today were continuing their investigation into the mysterious shooting and wounding of Anna Eglin, 6, at her home here two days ago refusing to accept the assertion that the shooting was accidental.

The girl died this morning.

YOUTH IS "DEAD," PUT IN BASKET

Racine, Wis., July 6—Charles Berndt, 16, was in the hospital today after spending several hours in an undertaker's basket at the morgue. Berndt was struck by a train and was believed dead. The undertaker, after covering the body with a blanket, discovered signs of life. Berndt may recover, it was said at the hospital.

Allen T. Brown, 35, Is Victim in Erie Yard Derailment

Thrown onto Tracks When Caboose Leaves Rails as Train Backs into Yard Just West of Kenton-av Crossing; Companion Escapes

The name of Allen T. Brown, 35, of 608 E. Church-st, was added to the list of Marion accident casualties today following his death in the Erie yards here, at 5:15 o'clock, last night.

Brown met his death when he was run down by the freight train on which he was working as it backed into the Erie yards on its arrival from Dayton. He was killed instantly, sustaining internal injuries. His left leg also was severed from the body.

Brown, who was a flagman on the train, and Conductor Charles M. Sheche, Blameau, were standing on the rear platform of the caboose on the freight train, No. 38, when the accident occurred. The caboose became derailed while the train was backing into the yards just west of Kenton-av and threw Brown from the car onto the tracks.

Catches Safety Rod

Conductor Sheche saved himself from being thrown off the caboose in the same manner by catching hold of the safety rod and jumping to the ground on the opposite side. He was uninjured.

Railroad officials today were investigating the cause of the derailment. C. P. Shaughnessy, train master of Kent Divison of Erie is in charge of the probe.

With Erie 19 Years

The accident victim had been employed with the Erie Railroad for 19 years and was well known in Marion, Kent and Galion railroad circles. He was first employed with the railroad as a call boy at Galion where he was born Feb 21, 1892. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown.

Brown was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Trainmen and a member of the Divisional Safety First Committee here. He enlisted during the World War in the Transportation Corps at Bucyrus at Bucyrus and was honorably discharged in 1919.

Surviving are his wife and daughter, Constance Eileen, 6, at 608 E. Church-st and his mother of Galion. He is also survived by two brothers, Lester and Robert of Galion and one sister, Mrs. Paul Allwine, also of Galion.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning at the residence here and burial will be in Galion Cemetery.

INDIANA WONDERS WHAT STEPHENSON TOLD REMY

Prosecuter Discloses Little Except That Former Klan Dragon Talked Much

Michigan City, Ind. July 6. What was the substance of the three hour conference between D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, and Will H. Remy, Marion County prosecutor?

That is the question engrossing the attention of Indiana officials today. Many would like to know.

It is believed Stephenson, who is serving a life sentence at the state prison here for the murder of Madge Oberholtzer, has at last made good his threat to tell a sensational story of political corruption in Indiana.

Prosecutor Remy and three of his assistants were closeted with the former grand dragon for three hours in his cell here yesterday. Remy admitted Stephenson did most of the talking.

Following the conference Remy said:

"We had a very satisfactory interview with Stephenson. During the three hours he did nearly all the talking. We're going to get somewhere, I hope. I cannot tell you anything he said, for if I did so everybody in Indiana would know what I intend to do next."

Stephenson who was supposed to be a power in Indiana politics during his regime as head of the Ku Klux Klan, has often pleaded to be allowed to tell his story since his conviction, and although he has been offered previous chances to do so, he balked at the final minute.

SHEFFIELD READY TO TURN IN RESIGNATION

Coolidge Faces Problem of Naming Ambassador to Mexico City

Rapid City, S. D., July 6—The first really troublesome problem of the summer vacation will be laid on President Coolidge's doorstep tonight or early tomorrow—namely, the appointment of a new ambassador to Mexico.

James R. Sheffield, present envoy to Mexico City, is arriving here around midnight prepared to tell the executive that his resignation, already on hand must be considered as final and accepted.

Mr. Coolidge, it is understood, already has been advised informally that his latest intrigue guest to the summer White House is serious in his determination to retire from public life, and has begun casting around for a successor to this rather turbulent diplomatic post.

John Garrett of Baltimore is said to be receiving the most favorable consideration, with Silas Strawn of Chicago and Charles Beecher Warren of Detroit also being urged.

WOMAN WOUNDED AS TWO MEN LOOT RESIDENCE

Perrysville July 6—Authorities here today were searching for two unidentified men who last night forced their way into the home of Mrs. Chew, occupied by the woman and her daughter and robbed it of $80, after shooting and wounding the mother. Mrs. Chew braced her feet against a staircase and prevented the men entering the home when they first tried to force their way in, but they shot through the door and wounded her, fleeing with the money.

TELLS PLAN TO DECENTRALIZE STATE LIBRARY

Universities and Schools Can Serve Public More Efficiently, Says Donahey

TO DISTRIBUTE VOLUMES

Governor Explains Veto of Appropriation Before Trustees and Others

Columbus July 6—Gov. Vic Donahey this afternoon submitted to members of the state library board of trustees a proposed plan for decentralizing the activities of the state library which was closed to the public June 30, last, because of lack of funds.

Closing of the library was the result of the veto by the governor of the legislative appropriation of $126,000 to defray operating costs of the library during the 18-months' fiscal period which began July 1.

At a public conference, called by the governor, held in the governor's office, Donahey submitted to members of the board of trustees the following recommendations:

First—That the traveling library section of the state library be divided among the four state normal colleges situated at Bowling Green, Kent, Athens and Oxford, each to serve its section of the state.

Restates His Veto

Second—That the archaeological and historical books be transferred to the library of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society, located on the Ohio State University campus here.

Third—That the remainder of the state library, including the legislative reference work, be transferred to the Ohio State University.

Explaining his veto of the state library appropriation, Governor Donahey addressed the board members as follows:

"The general assembly of Ohio appropriated millions of dollars in excess of the receipts of the state treasury for the fiscal period ending Dec. 31, 1928, as estimated by the auditor of the state. This made it necessary for me to veto funds for purposes and functions which could be eliminated with the least harm to the state.

"I vetoed the appropriation for the state library, located in the state house, but did not disturb appropriations for the six state universities and normal schools the library of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society or the state law library. The state library appropriation was $126,000 for all purposes, including administration.

Sum Better Administration

"Sums aggregating this amount were appointed for books alone for the other state libraries, not to mention the additional allowances for administrative purposes. During my administration, more than $1,000,000 were appropriated for books and improvements to the libraries of our state universities and normal schools.

"These libraries can administer all the functions of the state library more effectively than they have been in the past, thereby also, saving a large sum of money and making more space in the state house available for other purposes."

Representatives of various state organizations, interested in the activities of the state library, attended the conference. They were invited by the governor to submit to the conference any suggestions they desired relative to the state library.

A. B. FALL AND DOHENYS LOSE IN LEGAL SKIRMISH

Justice Hitz Declares Bribery Indictments "Good and Sufficient"

Washington, July 6 — Albert B. Fall and the two E. L. Dohenys, father and son, lost another round today in their protracted legal fight to escape trial on the ground of bribery, growing out of the Elk Hills Naval Oil Lease.

Justice William Hitz, in district supreme court, overruled the demurrers to the bribery indictment against the ex-cabinet officer and the oil magnates, and declared the indictments "good and sufficient."

The Fall-Doheny demurrer was based upon the supreme court's decision that the famous executive order of President Harding in 1921, under which Fall proceeded to lease Elk Hills to Doheny and Teapot Dome to H. F. Sinclair, was invalid. If this order was invalid, their attorneys contended, then subsequent events based upon that order also were tinged with invalidity, and bribery could not be based upon them.

This contention Justice Hitz denied. He cited numerous precedents to support his over-ruling decision, and concluded by saying that the president's order "had the force of law until it was held invalid, and those defendants acted under the assumption that it was valid. Therefore, they are precluded under the principles of estoppel from now contending they had no authority, the court being of the opinion that the indictments are good and sufficient and the demurrer should be overruled."

TRIBES CLASH

Increasing Unrest Between Hindus and Moslems Reported

London, July 6—Unrest between the Hindu and Moslem tribes in India is growing and unconfirmed reports today told of sharp clashes.

A dispatch from Calcutta said the Hindus had burned Moslem houses and that in retaliation, the Moslems looted Hindu residences in Palashipar, Bengal.

One Hindu was killed and many wounded in subsequent fighting, according to an unverified report.

HAD EVER REHEARSED WEDDING MARCH, CLAIM

Dayton, July 6—Though she went to church and rehearsed the wedding march with Henry Otterson, he refused to marry her three days before the date set for the marriage, Miss Amelia Eppler, charged here, in her suit for $20,000 alleging breach of promise, on file here today.

Pomona Organization Holds Session at Mt. Olive Hall

Green Camp, July 6—Pomona Grange met at the Mt. Olive Grange hall west of town Saturday night. A discussion was held regarding obtaining enough members to put the sixth degree work put on here this fall. Imogene Cates of Montgomery, gave a reading. Mable Cates, Montgomery, also gave a reading. Mrs. Oral Smith, Bethlehem, entertained with a whistling solo. Tom Clark, Tymochtee, gave a reading. Mr. and Mrs. William Flinchbaugh gave a dialogue and Harry Dreyer and Robert Uncapher sang a duet. The next Pomona meeting will be held the night of Sept. 3 at Montgomery. All coordinate grange members are invited to attend as a picnic supper and rally are features of this meeting.

FIVE DELINQUENT TAX SUITS SETTLED HERE

Each Defendant Pays Amount Sued for, Plus Costs of Action

Five suits for the collection of delinquent personal taxes were settled in municipal court yesterday, when five defendants appeared and settled with the clerk of the court. Each of the defendants paid the amount of the tax sued by County Treasurer Messenger and in addition paid the costs in the case.

Mrs. T. J. Mills paid $20.90 exclusive of the costs. T. J. Mills paid $18.39 exclusive of the costs while The Merchant's Transfer Co. paid $152.42 and H. J. Ackerman paid $8.14 both amounts being exclusive of the costs.

The hearing of 38 to the 40 delinquent cases filed last week, was scheduled to start today. It is expected that many of the cases will be settled by the defendants, before time for their hearing.

don't fool yourself

You probably offend

It's a fact that most of those who offend by Halitosis (unpleasant breath) are not aware they have it.

The one way of putting yourself on the safe and polite side is to rinse the mouth with Listerine before any engagement—business or social.

Immediately, every trace of unpleasant odor is gone, and with it that dread fear of offending.

Halitosis is usually the result of a bad condition in the teeth and gums—or both, and you know how effective Listerine is in keeping them healthy.

Better keep a bottle handy in home or office. Clip coupon below and get our helpful book of Etiquette free.

Central Island Control Is Choice of Coolidge, Claim

Carmi Thompson's Report Decides President in Matter of Administration

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 6—Gov. Gen. [illegible] Wood can talk all he [illegible] the Philippines' progress until [illegible] that report Carmi [illegible] made, after giving the [illegible] over, still sticks in a [illegible] craw.

It [illegible] in President Coolidge's. [illegible] has done a wonderful work. He's going back to Manila to be governor-general some more, and all that.

But the president's a convert to the idea of "a centralized control of America's overseas possessions," under one department of the government," just the same.

Everything's perfectly lovely, but the sooner it's changed, the better it will be for all concerned.

CARMI THOMPSON was sent to the Philippines a couple of years ago as the president's unofficial representative.

He was sent partly to investigate Philippine claims that the islanders are ripe for independence, and partly to find out all he could about complaints that General Wood's administration has been one prolonged, uninterrupted jamboree of native discontent.

Carmi's a resident of Ohio, our greatest rubber-consuming state, where it's generally held that the Filipinos (theirs is a great rubber country, if we could feel sure we've got it for keeps) not only aren't fit for independence, but never will be, and may as well make up their minds to it first as last.

He's a long-time close personal friend of General Wood.

He's never been noticeably consumed by any passion for recognition of the rights of "little peoples"—like the Filipinos.

It looked as if Carmi would make a pretty satisfactory report.

WELL, in the main, he did.

He didn't find the Filipinos equal to self-government—anything but.

Wood's administration had been absolutely all right.

If any native was discontented, he was a chronic fault-finder, who'd kick if he were going to be hanged.

It was an ideal report—except for a stinger in the end.

Carmi could wish, he said, for rather less militarism in the Philippine government. In fact, he expressed strong doubts if military men are adapted to hold posts of authority in civilian communities.

Inasmuch as Wood's government is almost wholly military, from Wood, himself, on down, this was a trifle sweeping.

SUCH a criticism from Senator Shipstead or Victor Berger or any other celebrated anti-imperialist wouldn't have weighed an ounce with the executive Washington of today, but coming from Carmi Thompson, it fell, word by word, like so many pigs of lead.

If the Philippine government's too arbitrary for Carmi, the lunch went 'round, it's hard to get away from the suspicion that it's being overdone.

Ever since then there's been talk in the air of something resembling England's "colonial office"—an outfit that knows something besides the manual of arms, high explosives, ballistics, tank warfare and poison gas.

JUST as Carmi Thompson has raised a question as to the army's competency to run the civil government of the Philippines, the navy's work in the Virgin Islands, Samoa and Guam is under an increasing fire, too.

Carmi Thompson really started it all.

Others had previously said a deal more than he did, but they got no action. The few remarks he made certainly went a long way.

EXTRA COACHES ARE PLANNED FOR ERIE TRIP

First 16-Day Excursion to New York Scheduled for Thursday

Extra sleepers and extra coaches will be carried on Erie trains to New York Thursday, to accommodate those who take advantage of the first 16-day limit excursion to the metropolis.

The first excursion of the year to New York and return, stop-overs allowed, will be held Thursday. Two more are planned for the summer.

Carries Extras

Extra coaches were carried on a number of trains operating through Marion over the Fourth of July to accommodate increased traffic. The Cedar Point excursion on the Pennsylvania Railroad from Columbus to Sandusky, through Marion, was well patronized, Sunday.

Track Repair

Track repair work is being carried on in the north yards of the Hocking Valley Railroad here.

Control Complete

After seven months of intense work by the signal, maintenance-of-way, and motive power departments of the Western Region of the Pennsylvania Railroad, of which Marion is a part, the entire Columbus Division has been placed under a complete automatic train control. The change in system was made a few days ago.

Another important piece of work completed on the Columbus Division is the telephone dispatching line.

Phones Used

With the inauguration of telephone train dispatching on the important division, trains on all main lines of the Western Region are dispatched by this method. The telephone for this import and operation work has proved in many ways its superiority over telegraph.

Denied Increase

Conductors and trainmen in road service on 55 western railroads were denied an increase in wages, while the yardmen on the same roads were granted an advance amounting to 7.5 per cent, under a decision made by the Board of Arbitration a few days ago.

The new decision affects approximately 65,000 employes. Marion workmen are in no way affected by the increase.

The island of Java, where a Communistic revolt is reported to have taken place recently is probably the most crowded country in the world. Thirty-six millions of people are massed together in a space no larger than the state of New York.

Her Blighted Life

PERFECTLY mated, gloriously in love, their marriage seemed a perfect match. Then Laura insisted on a gayer life in a more fashionable neighborhood. To humor her, Peter yielded, and life for Laura really began.

At first it all seemed so innocently amusing—the afternoon bridge parties, the cigarettes and cocktails, the "modern wives" she met, with their fascinating, idle male companions. Then one day Laura met David Macleery. Suave, handsome, unscrupulously clever, he was wonderfully attractive to women.

If only Laura had listened to the sharp warnings of her instinct, what suffering, what horror, she might have escaped. But once caught in the titanic whirlpool of her own mad folly, she seemed utterly lost. Swiftly, irresistibly, the treacherous current of events swept her along, the helpless victim of a Fate that plays no favorites. The story of Laura's thrilling, heart-rending experience appears with sixteen other absorbing features in August True Story Magazine. Its title, "My Wild Ride," gives not even the faintest conception of the astounding, breath-taking nature of this great epic narrative. Don't miss it.

Liberia First Nation to Pay Its Entire War Debt to U. S

$35,000 CHECK IS PRESENTED BY REPUBLIC

Mellon Praises Little Nation, Pointing Out That Its Burden Was Great

Washington, July 6—For the first time in the hectic history of American war debt negotiations, a nation came to the United States Treasury today and tendered a check for its entire obligations, plus interest.

The republic of Liberia, with a population of but 4,000,000, mostly negroes, presented to Acting Secretary of the Treasury Mills a check for approximately $35,000 in settlement of its entire obligations to the United States.

Liberia obtained advances of $26,000 from the United States under the Liberty Loan Act. On this amount something over $9,000 interest was due at the time of the settlement.

A letter from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, congratulating the tiny republic on its accomplishment, was made public by Acting Secretary Mills. It was pointed out at the treasury that the Liberian settlement was relatively as great a burden upon that nation as that of the funding of the huge war debts of the British and French.

Concessions Not Asked

No concessions on interest rates or principal was demanded—simply a check representing the entire obligation was presented.

Back of the settlement lies a rubber concession by the Liberian government to Harvey Firestone tire manufacturer, who has been among the first producers in America to take definite steps to break the British rubber monopoly in the far east.

Last fall Firestone obtained the right to an old British rubber plantation of about 900 acres and in addition 1,000,000 acres of undeveloped rubber land in Liberia. The combined plantation is said to be the largest in the world outside of the far east.

According to a statement issued today by the Firestone interests the plantation represents an investment of $100,000,000. At the present time this corporation employs about 12,000 men in Liberia. It was stated that eventually this force will be increased to 300,000, representing about one-thirteenth of the entire population.

Floats Huge Loan

As a result of the Firestone development the Liberian government recently floated a $5,000,000 loan in New York, the proceeds of which were partially used to pay off outstanding obligations.

Representatives of the Firestone corporation said that the potential production of the Liberian tract would be approximately 300,000,000 pounds annually or the equivalent of 60,000,000 automobile tires a year.

The American consumption of rubber in 1927 is now estimated at about 850,000,000 pounds. The manufacturers of United States use more rubber than any other nation but are chiefly dependent upon the British monopoly for their supply of the raw material.

While some rubber is being shipped from the section of the Firestone plantation on the old British concession, heavy production will not be possible for about five years, according to the statement.

Trims Salaries

Following an announcement of Jesse L. Lasky, above, of the Paramount-Famous Players-Lasky organization at Hollywood, Calif., cutting all salaries above $50 a week 10 per cent, 15 other motion picture producing concerns have joined in a similar announcement. SCOUTS SPEND QUIET FOURTH IN OWENS CAMP

Regular Schedule Followed; Campers Enjoy Fireworks Display at Country Club

The Fourth of July was celebrated at Camp Owens in a day of recreation and setting up for the new period. Early in the morning a four gun salute was fired. Later in the day the boys had their usual swims and baseball games. At sunset the regular ceremony was carried out.

After the Boy Scout salute the sunset gun was fired, and "Old Glory" came fluttering down while the campers stood at attention on the parade grounds, and the bugler blew retreat. In the evening the boys were driven to the Marion Country Club where they witnessed the display of fireworks.

Nature Study

Nature study is to become more interesting at the camp. Dr Herman Rhu has loaned the camp a microscope. Bacteria and protozoa found in the soil shrubs, and streams about the camp will be studied. A nature trail has been laid out for the study of flowers and birds. A collection of butterflies and moths has been started. Already there are more than 25 specimens.

Two Ball Diamonds

Already those who are responsible for the athletic program of Camp Owens have completed two baseball diamonds which mark the first step in the plan for complete athletic equipment at the camp. Tennis courts will be finished in the near future.

The completed field calls for tennis courts, ball diamonds, volleyball courts, jumping pits, and a quarter mile track. Each unit of the athletic field will be completed as rapidly as required. Under the direction of Jack Melvin, of Chillicothe, the boys will receive individual coaching in all of the major sports. The older boys are being given instruction in the fundamentals of football.

Camp Work

During the last period fancy cord, twine, rope, birdhouses, bows of lemon wood, imported from South America, and model towers and bridges were constructed by the boys. The present equipment, which is complete for a camp shop has been augmented by a large work-table equipped with vises and an anvil.

During the week a forge, a blacksmith's anvil, a drill press, and a large number of accessory tools will be installed in the shop. The new equipment is the gift of the Commercial Steel Castings Co. This addition to the present equipment will make the shop and handicraft lodge the best equipped lodge of its kind in the state.

Mr. E. J. Neff will be instructor in ironwork as well as in wood work, leather work, and rope and bow making. A large stock of plain and fancy colored leather arrived at camp today along with a complete set of leather working tools.

The boys will receive instruction in the making of belts, purses, pocketbooks, and moccasins. After the articles have been stitched they will be tooled by hand. Indian designs and monograms will be worked in the leather.

COLUMBUS MAN SPEAKS BEFORE ROTARY CLUB

Avery G. Clinger Says Community Grows in Proportion to Enthusiastic Builders

A community, like a business, grows in just the proportion that its builders have enthusiasm and believe in their product, the members of the Rotary Club were told at their luncheon at Hotel Harding, yesterday, by Avery G. Clinger, vice president of the First National Bank and of the Columbus Savings & Trust Co. of Columbus.

The skilled salesmanship growing out of enthusiasm and belief in the product, that has made a success of the big businesses of the nation, is the same enthusiasm and belief that must be shared by the people of a community, if that community is to grow, the speaker said.

The speaker took as the subject of his talk, "Getting the Signature on the Dotted Line." He compared the building of a community with the building of a business. Talk of business being dull or of a town being "dead," he said, grew out of lack of enthusiasm and interest in the business or community, which in turn is brought about by lack of a thorough understanding of the product, which in the case of communities, he said is its churches, its schools, its various service clubs and lodges and its business.

Urges Closer Study

He urged that members of the club make a closer study of the schools, churches, clubs and lodges, and business in general in order that they might play a bigger part in the development of the city. He also urged that they introduce into their business to a greater extent the motto of the club "He Profits Most Who Serves Best."

Before the introduction of the speaker by J. Malcolm Strelitz, it was announced by Clarence Brown, acting president of the club, that an invitation had been received to attend the luncheon of the Youngstown club to be held on July 13 when Leonard Skeggs a member of that club, who was chosen second vice president the international convention held (attend, Belgium, will be present.

Ford Predicts 100-Passenger Planes Spanning Atlantic

AUTO MAGNATE BACKS PLAN OF COL. MITCHELL

Sees Need for Fighting Air Force To Protect United States

(Editors' Note—Following is the second of four installments of an interview with Henry Ford by William B. Hutchinson, International News Service staff correspondent, in which the auto magnate discusses the future of aviation, politics and the business situation.)

[illegible] 6—Giant air cruisers, [illegible] carrying 100 passengers each, will be [illegible] the Atlantic at no distant [illegible] Henry Ford predicted today [illegible] America has entered the [illegible]

[illegible] interview with International News Service, the world's [illegible] came out with a strong [illegible] of Col. Billy Mitchell's [illegible] a fighting air force to protect [illegible] states from foreign aggression. [illegible] The next war will be fought in the air," said Ford, and "war in the air will be all war." Ford declared [illegible] generation will "take to the air" as the present generation must prepare the way.

"The large airplane is the ship of the future," said the auto king, whose [illegible] are putting him in the leadership in the field of commercial aviation. "We are entering the flying era and [illegible] coming in now wants to get up in the air."

Urges Aviation

"What should America do to be prepared in the air for the next war?" he was asked.

"Work on aviation," he replied promptly. "I think aviation is coming as far as it can in a commercial sense. I have a lot of faith in the United States and I think the commercial development of aviation helps the national defense by showing the way. The government should come along."

"Can airplanes ever displace battleships as Col. Billy Mitchell says?"

"There is no question about it," Ford replied, very seriously. "Airplanes can destroy anything pertaining to war. Aviation, I believe, has started another cycle. Mitchell is right.

Cites Tennyson

"War in the air will end all war. Read Tennyson's 'Locksley Hall,' and you will get the picture."

It was Tennyson who wrote in the middle of the last century, a far-sighted prediction of war in the air, which would end all war. The words referred to by Ford, follow:

"For I dipped into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be;
Saw the heavens fill with commerce, argosies of magic sails,
Pilots of the purple twilight, dropping down with cargo bales;
Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there rained a ghastly dew
From the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue;
Till the war-drum throbbed no longer, and the battle-flags were furled
In the parliament of man, the federation of the world."

Owns Air Lines

Ford showed considerable pride in the operation of his own air lines. There are four flying from the Ford airport here daily, and to date, the Ford lines have established a record of 6,517 flying hours and 580,933 flying miles with only one serious accident. The auto king's air services now connect Detroit with Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo and Grand Rapids, Mich. The Ford planes, he said, maintain a schedule of 1,532 air miles a day, six days a week."

"What will the plane of the future be like?" he was asked.

"The large multi-motored plane is the plane of the future," said Ford. "They will be of great size, carry many motors and hold a hundred passengers easily. These large planes will come because they can be more easily operated.

Too Much Man

"The present machine is four-fifths man-operated. The operator must be on the go every second. Too much depends on the man. I think this ratio can be reversed by building larger ships, some with more motors and less dependence on the human element.

"If multi-motored planes are perfected, Ford added, they will increase the safety factor and make flying as comparatively safe as land travel.

"If one or two engines break down," he explained, "the other motors will be able to carry the plane to its destination at reduced speed or to a safe landing. Or perhaps, they can be repaired while the plane is flying. There will be virtually no crashes such as now occur when motors fail in single-engined planes."

Ford's own interest is centered in the multi-motored plane. The experiments conducted under his supervision at the Ford airport have produced the now-famous tri-motored, all-metal Ford air cruisers. The experiments will continue along this line until a 100-passenger liner is produced.

Seeks Large Plane

"Nothing interests me very much in aviation aside from the large planes," said Ford.

"How soon will you produce a 100-passenger plane?"

"I can't say," he replied. "But we are working on it now."

"How soon will there be transatlantic air services?"

"I can't tell how soon, but we are on the way to it."

Aviation will create a new field of transportation, Ford concluded, and will not destroy other modes.

"Will airplanes ever kill off automobiles?" he was asked.

"Never," Ford answered. "A new system never drives the old one off. We still have horses despite street cars. We still have street cars despite automobiles. We will continue to have automobiles despite airplanes."

30 PRISONERS HELD IN MARION COUNTY JAIL

Largest Group Confined in More Than Year; Majority Minor Offenses

The county jail was taxed almost to its capacity this morning with what records show to be the largest number of prisoners registered there in more than a year.

There were 30 inmates housed in the cells this morning, more than double yesterday's total. The new arrivals included seven arrested last night in a raid on a home south of the city and others brought in from municipal court.

The majority are jailed on minor charges and will probably be released within the next few days after hearings and payment of pending fines.

SEVEN ARE ARRESTED IN RAID ON RUPP HOME

Four Men and Three Women To Be Given Hearings

Four men and three women, ages ranging from 18 to 45, were arrested by Deputy Sheriff George W. Deal and three city police officers in a raid on the home of Cyrus Rupp, near the Pleasant Township school about midnight last night and taken to the county jail to await hearing today before Probate Judge McNeal. Charges of contributing to delinquency were filed against the seven by Deputy Deal and hearings were set for this afternoon.

Rupp is unmarried and lives alone at the dwelling where the arrests were made.

The seven taken into custody had recently been released after having been taken in a raid on the Gertrude Miller home in this city last Sunday. They paid fines after hearings in municipal court.

Those arrested with Cyrus Rupp are Harold Rinehart, Ralph Rupp, Frank Kuhn and Misses Etta Self, Avenell Self and Laverne Eckard.

BIRTHS

Word has been received by friends here announcing the birth of a daughter to Rev. and Mrs. E. J. A. St. Louis, former pastor of the Asbury M. E. Church, in Cotham, N. J., June 17.

Mrs. St. Louis was formerly Miss Anna Pataagale of this city.

NEIGHBORS QUARREL

Squabble Between Women Ends in Court

A neighborhood quarrel in which hard names and a club played a part, had its anti-climax in municipal court this morning when Nell Kiece was arraigned on an affidavit filed by Emma Williams. According to the testimony of the Williams woman, she armed herself with a club to protect herself from the Kiece woman, who took the club from her and hit her on the head. A general denial was made by Mrs. Kiece who said she took the club from her neighbor after she had struck her. Mrs. Kiece admitted she had crossed the street to the Williams home. She was given a sentence of $5 and costs. The fine was suspended on payment of the costs.

SKIDMORE RITES TO BE HELD AT LOCAL CHURCH

Last rites for Mrs. Maryetta Rea Skidmore, wife of Frank Skidmore, will be held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Wheeler, Sheridan-rd, at 1:30 o'clock and the Fite Memorial Church at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Rev. Willey Young, pastor of the church will have charge and will be assisted by Rev. Frank Holliday. Burial will be in Marion Cemetery.

Mrs. Skidmore died at the home of her daughter, yesterday morning of pneumonia. She was 76 years of age.

MAN FINED FOR BITING ANOTHER DURING FIGHT

Davis Morris, 55, N. Main-st, was fined $10 and costs in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty to biting and wounding Cloris Mann. Morris was arrested at his home at 8 o'clock last night on an affidavit filed by J. H. Mann charging him with the offense. According to evidence introduced at the hearing this morning, in a fight between Morris and Mann on the Fourth, Morris bit one of Mann's fingers, nearly severing it.

Daily Proverb—"We should have many well-wishers, but few friends."

Aha! At last! We heard a front porch swing squeak last evening. Summer is here!

Possibly the aim of our legislators in passing a multiplicity of laws is to replace those broken.

It is understood that patent leather shoes will not be de rigueur in the hayfields of Vermont this year.

After giving the matter deliberate thought, we are inclined to agree with the poet that there are some rare days in June.

There's one advantage in being a president. When he catches a fish, it's a fish, no question is made regarding size.

MacMillan has gone north again. We never have been able to figure out whether Donald has an ingrowing aversion to warm weather or is merely a hay fever sufferer.

A citizen told us yesterday that up to a week ago we hadn't had any good painting weather this year, but we haven't heard a single, solitary word of complaint about it from the girls.

An exchange says: "Uncle Sam will go through the vacation period with a surplus." How different! The most of us go through a surplus during that period.

An electrical statistician announces that 47,000,000 electric light bulbs for Christmas trees were sold last year. And still some people will be foolish enough to keep on insisting that there isn't any Santa Claus.

Eamon de Valera refuses to swear allegiance to King George. Can it be that Eamon is fitting himself to run for mayor of Chicago? That's the only place of which we know where that kind of stuff goes.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt defends Jane Addams against the charge of communism. And all along we have been thinking that Jane was a bit proud of her peculiar views on the subject of government!

It begins to look as though June weather was held off till the opening of the present month, but, for the life of us, we can't figure out what month's weather was substituted last month for it.

According to Orville Wright, the chances against crossing the Atlantic safely in an aeroplane are about 1,000 to one. That's no way for an aeronautical expert to hang a handicap on the bright young men who soon will be trying to sell stock in transatlantic air transportation companies.

"I do not know how others may view it," remarked the fellow who lives next door on the way down town this morning, "but Mr. Wheeler's latest declaration of allegiance strikes me as possibly a trifle arid for universal appeal."

Movies Not All Make-Believe.

Two recent news items go to show that all the movie "thrillers" aren't faked. Three movie actors were drowned last week in shooting the rapids of an Alaskan stream and one young woman was drowned while doing a rapids-shooting scene here in the United States.

The movie patron may never miss them. Their names never appeared upon the bills. They were four of those who substituted for others when there was call for stunts that were really dangerous. The young woman drowned was the "thrill" substitute for a rather well-known young woman star whose "feats" are generally by proxy, as are usually those of most stars.

Of course, there are exceptions to this rule. Tom Mix and his wonderful Tony do some real stunts. So do Douglas Fairbanks and Harold Lloyd and a number of others. But the great majority of stars have substitutes for the rough and dangerous stuff, and in case of accident, the star's name still appears on the bills. They simply acquire somebody else to "double" for them.

Doubling for movie stars is a business by itself, and those who follow it know the perils they must face. If they are willing to face them, that is their affair, possibly. But the case is different when animals are made to undertake dangerous stunts. They have instinct only to warn them of their danger and there have been cases in the past, at least, where animals have been forced against their instinct to do stunts which have resulted in their injury and death. It is claimed that the lives of animals are no longer jeopardized. Let us hope that such is the case. That's one kind of a thrill against which the public has a right to make an outcry. That is carrying realism too far.

And, so far as that goes, any stunt which doesn't offer an overwhelming chance for successful accomplishment—whether by man, woman or beast—should have the condemnation of the public. Far better the make-believe in the movies than realism which results in loss of life.

A Sickening Story.

It must have been the exceptional reader who was not sickened by the Ossining story in yesterday's papers telling of the drowning of three youthful canoeists in the Hudson river but a few hundred feet from the wharf of Sing Sing prison while a thousand horror-stricken prisoners looked on helplessly, cowed by the guns of half a dozen prison guards from attempting a rescue.

The prisoners were taking exercise in the prison yard facing the river when their attention was attracted by screams. Rushing to the twelve-foot picket fence separating them from the prison wharf, the prisoners beheld the three boys making desperate efforts to swim to shore after their frail canoe had been overturned.

"Men hardened with years of crime" the story related, "cried and begged to be allowed to go to the rescue. All that separated them from the boys was the picket fence and less than 200 feet of water which a good swimmer could easily have negotiated."

But the guards warned them back, threatening to shoot any and all who attempted a rescue. It was explained that the prisoners had not been overly orderly of late and that it was feared that, unless the prisoners were held under restraint, some of them might take advantage of the situation and effect escapes.

The warden, who heard of the tragedy too late to be of assistance, deplored the fact that word had not reached him sooner so that he might have sent men to the rescue, but said that the guards had acted dutifully in obeying orders.

It is very true that some prisoners might have taken advantage of an attempt at rescue to break prison, but the chances are against it. It was but a few weeks ago that we were reading daily stories of prisoners risking their lives on the levees in the South to save the lives of the helpless. Dozens upon dozens of feats of heroism in rescuing flood victims were performed by them, and not a single attempt to escape was reported. There have been hundreds of cases where prisoners—and hardened prisoners, at that—have risked their own lives to perform works of rescue, and few, if any, were they made any attempt to escape. At such times the best in men is brought out. Their hearts are touched. Their thoughts are lifted above themselves and centered upon their works of mercy. Thought of escape is incompatible with the heroic impulse.

Blind obedience to orders probably cost the lives of the three boys drowned in the Hudson at Ossining. One is bound to question the value of the moral effect upon the prisoners of the refusal of the guards to permit them to answer the call of humanity.

There would be this advantage Miss Democracy would have should she nominate Owen D. Young as her candidate in 1928: she wouldn't have to go chasing around for expert ability to show her how to finance her campaign.

A thirty-four hour air service between New York and San Francisco is to be inaugurated, which makes plain that there must be some people a lot more anxious to reach either New York or San Francisco than we have ever been.

According to a survey made by the Literary Digest, forty per cent. of the homes of America haven't automobiles. Can it really be possible that there yet are as many of us true aristocrats of the land as this would indicate?

A radio receiving set has been publicly damned by Mohammedans in Tiflis. We haven't heard of anything of that kind hereabouts, but some of them get a lot of damning in private.

We quote the Cleveland Plain Dealer as authority for the statement that Harvard's baseball, football and hockey captains failed to pass their examinations. Honestly, now, does education pay?

The Chicago Tribune rather strongly intimates that there was dissension and trouble aboard the America which caused the sailing about in circles over France and the landing in the English channel, and that the four aviators have agreed on a story to cover it up. But certainly it couldn't have been sufficiently pronounced to cause nineteen hours of fog and storm. Really, maintaining the assumption of the world's greatest newspaper is mighty strenuous.

American Tourists Becoming Wise.

We get a lot of satisfaction out of a Paris cable stating that the French have come to realization of the fact that large numbers of American tourists are passing through France as quickly as possible, making but short stops in Paris and buying little.

Montmartre, the gay center of Parisian night life is dead. Many of the places are closed. None are doing any business worthy the name. The jazz bands have been dismissed. The actors who fake the tough stuff and the "actorines" who throw wine bottles at each other and tear off half the little each other wears are out of jobs. The continuous popping of champagne corks no longer obtains in Montmartre. Department stores and dress-making shops feel the dullness. Hotels and restaurants also feel the depression. This is the season when they customarily begin the boosting of prices. They have been known to raise prices two or three times within sixty days at this season of the year. This summer the most of them are experiencing difficulty in maintaining their spring prices.

When the franc was at the ebb, American travelers were willing to have the dwindling franc met by higher prices but since the franc has appreciated, they refuse to stand for advances two ways. The past freedom of Americans with their money is largely at fault, it is true, but even Americans are beginning to appreciate the fact that they are being stung and they are going on into Belgium, or Switzerland, where the prices are reasonable, or to Italy, where the lowest prices in Europe prevail and the best values are obtainable for the money invested.

The lesson the Parisians and the French resorts is being taught may be profitable to them. If it is, it will also prove profitable to future American travelers in France.

Colored Glasses Protect Eyes.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A good friend of mine wishes an article for his particular benefit. His wife had a badly inflamed eye on her return from Europe last year. "Whether rightly or wrongly," my friend writes, "she attributes it to the glare of the sun on board ship."

I am asked about the value of tinted glasses to protect the eyes: "Does one tint have a different effect upon the eye than another?"

Scientists look upon light as being made up of an unceasing stream of rays. The sunshine and the "cloud-shine" send out an endless procession of such light beams.

These rays are not all alike by any means. Some are illuminating rays. Some cause the sensation of heat. The ones we are interested in today are capable of producing chemical changes in the things they strike.

For instance, the photographic plate of the camera is changed by these rays. The skin is "sunburned" by their action. The eyes may be irritated by exposure to them.

In recent years we have been describing these beams as "ultra-violet rays." Experimentation has shown that they have real value in promoting growth and physical well being. But, as in everything else, it is possible to have too much of a good thing. An organ so sensitive as the human eye may be seriously harmed by undue exposure to these rays.

We have learned that certain makes of window glass will admit practically all the ultra-violet rays. This permits the improvement of the health of young children by giving them the stimulating effects of the chemical rays.

But when we come to the eyes we are dealing with another problem. Undue stimulation of the delicate retina will do real harm and may lead to temporary blindness even. To guard against this danger successful efforts have been made to find a glass capable of filtering out the harmful rays.

It was necessary to produce a glass that would not cut out useful vision, as glass densely smoked will do. It was important, too, to find a glass which would not distort, or seriously change the natural colors as they normally appear to us.

After much experimental work such a glass has been found. Spectacles fitted with lenses of this sort protect the eyes against the ultra-violet rays, permitting a person with sensitive eyes to enjoy the seaside or the ocean. The painful glare of the sun is overcome by their use, and yet there is no disturbance in the usual appearance of things. They are a blessing to sensitive eyes.

Poems That Live.

AN OLD BATTLEFIELD.

Deep down among the first green clover shoots
of Spring,
Pressed close against the rich brown earth,
I think I see red footprints hidden—
Red footprints that a hundred snows
Could never wash away;
And in the groves the trees' gray bark
Is underlined with mystic runes
And sometimes when the noonday sun is high,
And locusts whir across the dusty fields,
The runes give back their magic song
In fervent whispers, saying, "Hark!"
When Winter passes by this way
And flings his drifts against the parapets,
Then will he come again, head bare,
Heart broken, cheeks tear-lined,
And kneel beneath the trees
While Lafayette and Muhlenberg and Wayne
Keep watch upon their hills.
And sometimes when the moon is high
Ghost warriors march to tap of muffled drum
Across the fields from Schuylkill down to Valley
Creek,
Or change the guard on Star Redoubt.
How silently these ragged columns march:
Heads bowed against remembered biting winds,
Their broken banners flapping in the breeze,
Worn with the endless vigil that they keep.
Have you seen this, or do you sleep beyond the hills
And have no fear
Because the guard stands watch—
Because the grass hides well these red footprints?

—Rychard Ira Burts.

My flesh and my heart faileth: but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion forever.—Psalm 73:26.

Prayer—Surely, God is good to such as are of a clean heart.

Editorial Comment.

UNMASKING THE PRIMARY

In an article in the June number of the North American Review, Vice President Dawes takes his stand with those who believe that the primary election has worked to break down popular representative government. The primary came in on a wave of indignation at corruption in party management. It was meant to restore power to the voters and to guarantee majority rule. It has done neither and at the same time has brought in evils of its own, among them unprecedented campaign expenditure and a wholesome abatement of party discipline and responsibility.

Only half the citizens of voting age now vote at presidential elections. General Dawes says that in primary contests in non presidential years in states, counties and cities, not more than twenty-five per cent. of the qualified vote is cast. This destroys the fiction that the primary has assured popular control of elections.

Our government is based on the representative principle. The two party system is its most effective instrument. Yet the primary, as developed in many states, has allowed voters to vote and candidates to be chosen who openly antagonize the party whose label they appropriate. It is creating bloc as a substitute for parties and introducing into this country the parliamentary instability and irresponsibility which have weakened democratic government in many parts of Europe.

The United States, with many federated units needs strong national parties to counteract the pull of group and sectional separatism. The primary system has tended to put local party authority ahead of national, to disorganize the major parties and to deliver congress over to the activities of obstructive interparty minorities.

The old convention system, whatever its shortcomings, preserved the spirit of party sovereignty and unity—things of no small importance to representative government. Recent primary abuses have emphasized the need of saner and less extravagant party operation. New York went back to the convention system some years ago. Pennsylvania and New Jersey are considering going back to it. It is to be hoped that Vice President Dawes' arguments against the primary's demoralizations may have a powerful effect in the Middle West and the Northwest, where the primary election's faults and dangers are not yet sufficiently realized.—New York Herald-Tribune.

SOMETHING IN A NAME.

Ask any schoolboy what is "The Spirit of St. Louis" or the "Columbia" or the "America" or the Los Angeles," and he can tell you promptly. But a search of the voluminous reports of the nine flight to Hawaii fails to reveal any personal identity for the army plane. A few experts know that it has a letter-numerical identity; but most of them have to look it up.

In an age when even the railroads are beginning to name their locomotives and every person and thing that can be vested with individuality is having it conferred because popular interest so runs, it would seem that the army might have christened its great transpacific plane. So long as its wood and metal hang together it will be an object of interest. It made great aviation history; it has become a thing of life.

No response was more sweeping than that of the world public to Lindbergh's "We." That helped mightily to stimulate appreciation of the feat of flying from New York to Paris. A horse, a boat, an engine, a ship—anything which safely transports man upon his adventurous path becomes a part of himself. "Bucephalus" is not forgotten, nor "Traveler," nor the "Fram," nor the "Josephine Ford."

The Hawaiian plane, like Maitland and Hegenberger, should have been given the identity of fame.—New York Times.

MINISTERS' SONS INDORSED.

Ministers' sons ranked highest in class rating at Yale university, according to survey of the occupations of students' parents, the bureau of education, department of interior, announced orally on June 3.

An analysis of the survey, it was stated, showed that the lawyer's sons ranked second, the combined professions of teaching third, medicine fourth, business fifth, engineering and science sixth and writing and artistic profession seventh.

Mental test ratings rank ministers' sons first again, writing and art second, law third, teaching fourth, combined professions fifth, medicine sixth and engineering and science seventh.

In the number of hours devoted to study it was found that lawyers' sons put in the longest hours and sons of writers the shortest.—United States Daily.

Queen Anne, of England, had seventeen babies. Only one of them survived the perils of the first year. Today only sixty-six out of a thousand babies die at birth. Modern science aims not only at the conquest of disease but at the conquest of ignorance and superstition.

Long live our 4,000 miles of unfortified border between the United States and Canada! We need each other. Let things stay "as is." No need of one great country. Last year Canada was our second best customer—and Canada was our best source of supply. We sold the United Kingdom nearly $1,000,000,000 worth of goods—but we sold Canada more than $7,000,000 worth. Germany, next, was under $4,000,000.

One of the things we in the United States have most reason to be thankful for is our 100 per cent. first-class relations with Canada.

Orville Wright who, with his brother, taught the world to fly, rarely talks about aviation. He is conservative. But the feat of Lindbergh stimulated him to break his silence. Wright predicts air service on a regular schedule between New York and Paris. He speaks as one having authority.

Engineers know that we get but a small fraction of the possible power out of gasoline. Devise a method to get the real kick out of gas and the flying business will be immensely furthered.

Experts are working constantly on new fuel. Alcohol can be made out of any vegetable matter. It will run motors as well as gas. What science seeks now is a cheap method of manufacture.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 6.—Next to Vernon Castle, the most popular and glamorous of the ballroom dancers was the late Maurice Mouvet whose fame girdled the globe as Maurice. He was the last of the guild of aristocratic dancers to withstand the eccentric Charleston and Black Bottom craze.

Maurice for five years had been doing a sort of dance Micawber. Frequently during that period he would slump into his ringside chair after an exhibition dance to be caught by a paroxysm of coughing that would stain his handkerchief pink.

His raven black hair accentuated waxen pale features. But he continued to dance and smoke innumerable cigarets. He pirouetted many dancers to fame and fortune for Maurice had the knack of exploiting his partner while remaining himself in the background, yet audiences sensed his mastership.

He was a bird of passage always on the wing, following gay crowds from New York to Palm Beach, Paris, Deauville and back to New York again. He was born in New York, but spent most of his life in Paris where he was popular and beloved. He had all the volatile qualities of the French.

At the peak of his career his income was around $3,000 a week, but in the last two years he had fallen on comparatively lean days. There was sporadic enthusiasm when he opened at this club and that, but the ball-room dance had spent itself. Maurice, and not his dances, drew the crowds.

The male dancers of his ilk and generation included Castle, Basil Durant, Clifton Webb, Harry Pilcer, William Reardon, Leon Leitrem, Rudolph Valentino and several others whose names escape me. They offered a polished suavity that caught the Broadway eye.

So sweeping was their individual popularity in success that they could with two or three dances fill a club nightly. Women have offered as high as $1,000 to dance a single dance in public with Maurice and thus inflate their vanity into an odd and unholy halo of pride.

Of the ball-room dancers, Vernon Castle was the most adroit showman. Often he would be seen lolling in the cushioned depths of a violet-hued automobile rolling slowly down Broadway. He would be hatless and his pink sport shirt open at the throat while he was apparently engrossed in perhaps a copy of Vanity Fair. He knew perfectly well people were whispering, "There goes Castle!" and that many would be fighting for ringside tables to see him dance that night. At other times he would take the trap drummers place in a night club. He was a deft trick drummer and dancers would clear the floor to watch him. It was publicity that paid.

One of the cleanest living men along Broadway is a professional dancer. He had other qualities just as admirable. More than half his life has been spent among the night birds of the cabarets and jazz halls. He went to Europe eight years ago and is still dancing there. His name is Jack Gavin.

There is speculation as to just what popular dance idea will be exploited this winter. Efforts to revive the waltz have been futile. The tango also failed to come-back. Some believe the overtone of vulgarity in dancing has been so pronounced that coupled with the collapse of night clubs there may be little dancing for a season or two. This happened for a period about 15 years ago. Dancing simply went out.

Curiosity is often aroused as to just what the talented who ride a popular wave to prosperity do with their fat earnings. As a rule they do not display great extravagance and yet few of them are able to achieve an old age competence.—Copyright, 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

MARTIN L. DAVEY.

Martin L. Davey was born at Kent, Ohio, July 25, 1884. He served as mayor of Kent from 1914 to 1918 when he resigned upon his election to the sixty-fifth congress to fill an unexpired term. At the same time he was elected to the sixty-sixth congress, 1919-1921. He has since occupied a seat in the lower house from the Fourteenth district of Ohio from 1923, having been out one term.

Speaking of farming interests, recently, Mr. Davey advocated the use of the Muscle Shoals plants for the making of fertilizers. He said:

"The prosperity of the farmers is necessary to continuing general prosperity. We know that for a long time the farmer has received low prices for his crops and has had to pay high prices for what he buys.

"One of the large items of cost in the production of his crops is the expense of fertilizers. I do not see how we can justify our failure or neglect to provide a remedy which is right at hand in this great water power development at Muscle Shoals, which has been allowed to lie idle for years.

"America is one of the few food producing countries that has an exportable surplus. But we must realize that the productivity of our land is decreasing and that all of the land remaining in the United States available for cultivation, which is not now cultivated, is about equal in area to the state of Illinois.

"The time is relatively near at hand when we shall be without a surplus of food and must compete with the rest of the nations of the world for the basic necessities of life, unless we take steps to enrich and maintain the fertility of our soil.

"Our problem is to find a means of getting maximum production from our available land. We have experienced a steadily diminishing production per acre during the last few years."

Feature of Memorial Day Parade Here Appears in Official Publication

The cross, formed by grouping 144 children from the local schools in attractive white and red costumes, was regarded as one of the most impressive spectacles of the kind ever witnessed in a local parade. It was arranged under the direction of Miss Mina Doughty, executive secretary of Marion County Chapter of the Red Cross, with the co-operation of school officials.

Appearing in the picture, in addition to the 144 children, are Miss Doughty, Sergt. John C. Porter of the Harding honor guard, who assisted in drilling the children in preparation for the parade, and Mrs. J. W. Hungate, Mrs. Marshall McKinstry and Mrs. S. W. Rauhauser, Red Cross workers who aided in the costuming. Chief Turret Captain J. B. Shank, local U. S. Navy recruiting officer, was associated with Sergeant Porter in the drill work.

A write-up, describing the parade feature and giving an account of the steps taken in its preparation accompanies the picture.

Norbeck Now Possibility as Coolidge Running Mate

South Dakota Senator Suddenly Found Basking in Limelight

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 6—President Coolidge's sojourn in the Black Hills is serving as a fine piece of publicity for one national character—Senator Peter Norbeck of South Dakota.

PETER NORBECK

Next to the Coolidges themselves, Pete appears to be getting the lion's share of the advertising out of the presidential family's vacation.

His fellow senator, William H McMaster, has hardly been heard from, but the papers have been full of Peter. His picture's been printed any number of times, too, showing the Coolidges around, playing with their pet raccoon, wearing a 10-gallon hat, sitting in an automobile, doing all kinds of things.

DUE notice is also being taken that of the fact that Pete is now being mentioned quite frequently as a vice presidential possibility.

It isn't regarded as surprising that he should be, considering how prominently he has been looming up of late in Coolidge company, but what Washington would like to know is how he managed to assimilate unto himself so large a proportion of the limelight.

Norbeck never was known here as one of the boys who pushed himself to the front much. Plenty of more ordinary representatives have been more successful at it than he has.

When he saw his chance, however, he appears to have come a running.

THE Washington estimate of Pete is that he wouldn't make a bad running mate for Calvin, provided he can keep up his present luck as a publicity-getter.

He comes from a good part of the country.

South Dakota's quite a pivotal corn belt state. It's rather on the edge, to be sure and it hasn't many electoral votes, but it virtually counts for political purposes, as part of several other states — like Iowa, Nebraska, North Dakota of course, maybe even Minnesota and Wyoming, and, by some stretch of the imagination, Kansas and Colorado.

In Iowa, which certainly is pivotal a South Dakotan is regarded almost as a native son.

Pete's geography's in his favor.

NORBECK'S also a Scandinavian or the second generation, of whom there are scads in the northwest.

He's had a reputation as quite a radical. He calls himself a "Roosevelt Republican"—not a plain Republican. When politicians have been engaged in sizing up the senate they've always been a little doubtful if they hadn't ought to set Pete Norbeck down among the "insurgents."

He generally has been put in what Senator Shipstead calls the "twilight zone."

This is fine. It's radical enough—at least Pete probably hopes it is—for radicals to regard him as a radical and yet not radical enough to make conservatives too darn afraid of him.

IS it too much to wonder if Pete had the vice presidency in the back of his head when he waged the campaign he did to get the Coolidges to go to the "hills"?

If he thought the whole scheme up and really expected things to turn out as they have, his political slickness is a credit to him.

It hardly seems like an accident. He was too promptly on the job for that.

Anyway, a month ago nobody'd any more have thought of Pete Norbeck in connection with the vice presidency than they'd have thought of—well, anybody who wasn't supposed to stand a ghost of a chance at it—and now, blame if all the politicians aren't saying, "H'm, after all, he mightn't be such a bad nomination.

That's the way folks get to be nominated.

The concluding day of the Chautauqua, Tuesday, Aug 2, will include a concert by the Southland Artists, and a lecture, "This Way Up," by Chancellor George H Bradford, in the afternoon, and the Southland Artists and DeJon & Co. entertainers and magicians at night.

50 MARION ELKS WILL GO TO CINCINNATI MEET

Large Delegation To Represent Local Order at Grand Lodge Convention

Marion Lodge of Elks will be represented by about 50 of its members at the grand lodge meeting to be held in Cincinnati next week, according to estimates now available at the office of John M Beigel, secretary of the local lodge, who is making reservations.

Final arrangements for attending the grand lodge session, which is to be held July 11 to 16, inclusive, are to be made at the regular meeting of Marion Lodge, Thursday night.

The major portion of the local delegation will make the trip to Cincinnati on a special train in company with lodge members from Columbus and Newark, the train having been chartered by Columbus lodge. Reservations have already been made at Cincinnati hotels for Marion, Columbus and Newark Elks.

The Marion party going by train will be present throughout the entire convention and many others are planning to motor to Cincinnati to attend part of the sessions.

Grant E. Mouser, Jr., who served as exalted ruler of the local lodge last year, will be the delegate from here and J. W. Wark, veteran chaplain of the lodge, will serve as alternate.

Local arrangements for the trip are in charge of a committee consisting of E. H. Huggins, Carl E. Danner, F. M. Paschall and V. M. Dutton.

CHINESE LAUNDRYMAN IS GIVEN SUSPENDED FINE

Joe Yee, proprietor of a Chinese laundry on W. Center-st, who was arrested by Sanitary Commissioner Charles Tobin, Sunday afternoon when he refused to clean up the yard at the rear of his place of business, was given a suspended sentence of $10 and costs in municipal court yesterday.

Yee, according to the commissioner, had refused to clean up after he had received three notices and had refused to pay 75 cents to have the rubbish hauled away after the commissioner had provided the means. The sentence was suspended on condition that he clean up the yard.

18 MARION AGE LIMIT LOWERED BY U. S. NAVY

Youths 17 May Now Enlist Under Recent Ruling of Federal Department

Under a recent ruling of the U. S. navy department, the minimum age limit for naval recruits has been lowered from 18 to 17 years and applications under the new regulations are now being received at the local recruiting office, which is in charge of Chief Turret Captain J. B. Shank. Naval enlistments are now open to applicants between 17 and 35 years of age.

The local recruiting office, now permanently located here, is headquarters of a district which takes in all or parts of six central Ohio counties. The office is in connection with the Red Cross rooms on S. Main-st.

Enlistments in the district are now averaging about four each month, Captain Shank states. The navy department places a definite limit on the number accepted monthly in any one district.

Captain Shank has been in charge of the local office since last March, when he was transferred here from Boston.

ENROLLMENT CLIMBING IN LIFE SAVING SCHOOL

Instructions at Crystal Lake Pool Will Be Continued Through August

Gradual increase in enrollment of classes in the Red Cross swimming and life saving school being conducted at Crystal Lake was reported today by Jack Houghton, instructor in charge. The school opened July 1 and will be continued throughout July and August.

The senior life saving class will receive instructions three nights each week, according to a schedule announced yesterday by Houghton. This class, which is for persons whose ages are from 17 years upward, will meet at 6:30 o'clock every Monday, Wednesday and Friday night.

Other classes are for children under 15 years of age and juniors from 12 to 17. The schedule for these classes remains the same as announced last week.

Dates for special demonstrations to be held at "swimming holes" in various parts of the county will be announced soon. Arrangements for these demonstrations, which will also be under Houghtons' direction, are being made by a Red Cross committee headed by Fire Chief T. J. McFarland.

Houghton will give special life saving and first aid instructions to local firemen and employes of several factories.

Expert Findings!

The most popular business for women in America today is beauty culture, and those engaged in it must know expertly about beauty aids! Stunning Miss Betty Winkler, New York beauty specialist, whose home is in Greeley, Pa., says: "The exquisitely textured Black and White Face Powder has certain qualities I've found in no others. It's so soft and fluffy as the lightest of powders, soothing and beneficial to the skin, yet it adheres more smoothly and lastingly than the so-called 'heavy powders.' Its tints are the natural, life-like ones women of charm seek, and its flower fragrance is delicate, yet clinging.

You can get this dainty powder, attractively packaged for 25c, from 80,000 dealers everywhere, along with the other Black and White Beauty Creations.

If your dealer doesn't have the Black and White Beauty Creations you want, send his name to Plough, Dept. 97, Memphis, Tenn., and you will receive free a copy of the Birthday and Dream Book, containing many interesting facts on beauty, dreams and fortune telling.

MEISTER REUNION

Barney Meister Chosen Head of Organization at Park

Barney Meister was chosen president at the sixteenth annual reunion of the Meister family held July 4 at Garfield Park. Mrs. William Newhouse was chosen vice president, J. C. Scheiffler, secretary and treasurer. Sixty-seven members of the family were in attendance from Cleveland, Zanesville, Detroit, LaRue, Meeker, Galion, Iberia, Mt. Gilead and Marion. During the business session it was planned to hold the reunion next year on Labor Day at the home of H. K. Van Dorn, two miles south of Iberia. Dinner was served at the noon hour, arrangements being in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. William Newhouse, chairman, Mrs. William Gamble, Mrs. W. E. Fetter, Mrs. J. C. Scheiffler, Miss Harriet Scheiffler and W. E. Fetter. The committee on arrangements for next year will be Mrs. H. K. Van Dorn, Mrs. Ray McGee, Mrs. William Larrick and Mrs. Walter Lust. A ball game was enjoyed during the afternoon between the Bills and the Tums, the Bills winning by a score of 11 to five. Talks were given by Barney Meister, J. C. Scheiffler, W. E. Fetter and H. K. Van Dorn. Later refreshments were served and a group picture taken. A number of the guests from Marion and the vicinity were entertained with fireworks at the home of William Gamble near Meeker in the evening.

Menu Hints

Recipes for New and Novel Dishes; Household Ideas and Suggestions

Sandwiches are popular summer and winter, but, of course, they are particularly well liked when the picnic season is here. Their variety is infinite. I'm including sandwich recipes in the menu today. And while we always appreciate sandwiches when picnicking, why not serve tasty sandwiches warm summer evenings in place of the usual hot meat and potato? If one wants something hot at a meal, a hot drink or one hot dish is enough.

Sandwiches
Creamed Potatoes with Green Onions
Salad Cake Lemonade Milk

TODAY'S RECIPES

Creamed Potatoes — Add a few chopped green onions to the potatoes when creamed and ready to serve.

Hearty Sandwiches—One-half pound boiled ham, three hardboiled eggs, one stalk celery, one green pepper, one cream cheese. Grind all together and spread on white or rye bread.

Chicken Sandwiches — Use cold, cooked chicken cut fine. Add chopped pimentoes and celery in proportion desired. Mix with boiled salad dressing or mayonnaise and spread between thin slices of bread. Any cold meat may be used in place of the chicken.

Egg and Stuffed Walnut Sandwiches—One-half dozen hard cooked eggs, one small bottle stuffed olives, salad dressing. Run the eggs and olives separately through the food chopper. Moisten with salad dressing and spread between thin slices of bread, buttered sparingly. This amount will make about four dozen sandwiches.

DAILY TESTED RECIPE

CONSERVE

Four boxes currants, two boxes red raspberries, six small oranges, two lemons, one box raisins. Slice oranges and lemons very fine (skin and all) and for every cup of fruit, minus the raisins, add one cup sugar.

CHAPTER FORTY-NINE

Larry raised his hands again and the Eye of the Prophet on his finger sent its fiery rays across the heat of armed men. His voice boomed as before.

"The will of the army has spoken. A clear majority demands sight of the Eye. It shall be shown."

Tribe Three spoke again.

"Tribe One, only you know the secret of the springs. Therefore, proceed to open it."

Larry placed his fingers on eight of the knobs, his thumbs on two others, and pressed, looking at his companion.

"Press the remaining six knobs, Tribe Three," he ordered.

The other complied instantly. Larry knew that this red-handed villain felt sure the Eye reposed in the case; that he was confident the diadem would be revealed for all to see and that, consequently, the power of the Marabout Group would be restored on the instant. Together they pressed the knobs and the little click sounded. Larry lifted his hands, the lid in them.

He heard Tribe Three gasp in horror as he gazed down into the empty interior of the case. Came the voice of Sheikh Tahar el-Hassan:

"A Scarlet Robes: hold up the Sacred Eye that we may all see."

Now swift action started on the platform. Tribe Three, whipping out a long, gleaming knife with a curved blade, sprang toward Larry, hissing as he came:

"Trickery! I have suspected it before; now I know. You are not Tribe One," and with the words he launched a mighty stroke with the knife.

Larry had no time to draw his own knife, nor to evade the downstroke, so he moved like a flash of light and his long, swinging right arm flew out and upward, his hand clenched into a tight ball. Even as Emir Azi had felt it Tribe Three now felt the force of a powerful, crunching American uppercut and as the blow smashed home to the point of his chin, a little under it, he was lifted literally from his feet, a good six inches of daylight showing beneath them and the platform. Then he hurtled headlong from the platform, down the side, to strike a heavy, sickening thud a good forty feet below, dead almost before he struck the hard, sunbaked earth.

A babble of sound arose among the soldiers drawn up on the slope and at the instant of Tribe Three's ill-fated attempt to kill Larry Tribe Five also went into action, stripping back his scarlet robe and drawing forth a long, Moorish sword. With this singing through the air he leaped at Larry, aiming a wide, sweeping stroke at the American's neck.

Retreating as he ducked the blow Larry missed the point of the sword, but felt his hooded mask catch on the tip of the other's weapon and whisk from his face, so that he stood uncovered, before Tribe Five and all the multitude. He heard a confusion of sound out of which he gradually made sense of what they were saying:

"The wizard. He has overcome the marabouts. Woe to Moslem unless he leads us."

He had no time to hear more for Tribe Five was coming in again, this time with his sword held low and straight, as for a thrust that would surely plunge it through Lrary's body, to stand a good foot out beyond his back. But Larry's hand was beneath his scarlet robe by now, clutching the butt of his automatic. There was no time to draw it forth, so, as cooly as gunmen of the old west had ever done it, he tilted the weapon at his hip and let it roar its blast of death beneath the robe.

He saw Tribe Five stagger toward the edge of the platform and slump; saw him toss his hands, dropping the sword, and topple. A thud told Larry that the marabout had joined the dead Tribe Three far below.

He smelled an odor of burning cloth and realized that the flames from his automatic had fired his robe. Stripping it away he stood briefly, prepared for a quick retreat back to the Temple. He heard Omar's voice booming:

"Al, let your wizardy tell us what has become of the Eye."

Other voices were roaring in an infernal din:

"Lead us—Who commands us now? —Wizard—"

It was a confusion of sound that no man could make sense of. These people, witnessing the deaths of two of the marabouts, sensing, perhaps, that others were also dead, realising that Larry probably had done for the rest Tribe One, at that moment were as helpless as orphan children. They were calling on him to lead them.

But a fresh climax was coming. Larry knew that somewhere out among the ranks of those who had remained steadfastly loyal to the Marabout Group Tribe Four and Seven were about their business, stirring the armed men to vengeance. Now one was lifted above the heads of this group and his uplifted hands were demanding attention. He wore a patch over one eye and his beard was tangled and matted, his barnoose a filthy rag.

It was Youcoub el-Bachir!

A hush descended and Youcoub el-Bachir began to speak. As his voice rolled forth Larry, alone on the platform, clasped his hand tight about his automatic and prepared again for a swift backward movement that would carry him away from the tower and down into the Temple.

"There is treachery here, as Allah lives," he heard Youcoub roaring. "Peace, while he you know as Youcoub el-Bachir, sometimes mendicant, sometimes medicine healer, speaks. I would tell a tale." As the one-eyed one saw he was receiving the full attention of all save those who huddled solely about Omar ben Medjad, he continued:

"The Sheikh Tahar el-Hassan is a traitor. The wizard is a traitor. The youth Allal Abdi, whom all men have known as the son of our old sherif of the past, Omar ben Mansour el-Massasi, is a woman! It is a plot to steal the Sacred Eye and hand it over to the Spaniards. It is a trick of the Sheikh Tahar el-Hassan and the wizard to destroy the power of the Marabout Group. How do I know?"

Larry saw Youcoub reach up and rip from his eye the patch that had covered it; saw him revealed as having two good eyes, and recognized him as the one who had lured him into Beni Ahmed's trap at Duk el Abds! He heard the man shouting again:

"How do I know? I am the Voice, the Voice of the Atlas. I am the Eye, the all-Seeing Eye of the Atlas. I am Tribe One, the leader of the Marabout Group. The one you knew as the Marabout of Adrar was put a pawn in the game we play against the dogs of the Spaniards. I, and I alone, am the Marabout of Adrar! I command you to listen; command you to seek out and kill those who have stolen the Sacred Eye."

Larry, taking three backward steps toward the ladder that would let him back into the Temple grounds, heard the man shouting again:

"Go, seize the wizard and slay him. He is but a treacherous spy of the infidels. Slay, too, the Sheikh Tahar el-Hassan, who has appeared among us in many guises. Brothers of the Faith, comrades under Allah—hark, while I speak; heed what I say—the Sheikh Tahar el-Hassan is known in the north as Omar ben Medjad, an agent in the employ of Spain."

Clear, White, Smooth Hands Are Beautiful

Manicuring alone can not make the hands beautiful. The skin itself must be soft, firm, white and youthful. The easiest way to do this is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, and massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach daily into the hands and arms. It will make even stained, toil-worn hands soft, clear, smooth and white.

All dealers have Orchard White.—Adv.

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

NEAREST TO HIS SON

THAT Lillian would be as royal in her mental amends to Mary as she had been rigid in her secret, having never voiced strictures upon the girl's conduct, I knew from her reaction to my revelation of Mary's determination to tell Philip Veritsen of her escapade as the masked dancer. But there was no time for any further discussion on the subject. Philip Veritsen was crossing the sidewalk from the drug store to the car, and the brief directions which he gave his chauffeur permitted Lillian and me time for only a hurried, low-toned colloquy.

"Don't spill any beans about Noel's being out there at Ticer's," she said.

"I won't, but when I speak of a young man who has attracted the interest of the young woman at The Larches just note that I mean N—, our young friend."

Noel Veritsen's name had been upon my lips, but as Otto opened the door for Noel's father to enter I changed the phrase and tried to look as if Lillian and I had been discussing someone known only to ourselves.

"Yes, she's rather a dear if she weren't quite so up-stage," Lillian replied, promptly playing up to the cue. Then she turned her attention to Philip Veritsen.

"I suppose the attendants at the mountain inn are in a row on their knees, with their foreheads touching the ground," she told him, and turned to me before he could answer her.

"You may not know that Phil represents life's most dramatic moment to many chefs and waiters. They 'weep with delight' when he smilingly arrives, and as he invariably makes them emulate the much-advertised peculiarity of the hippopotamus, they 'tremble with fear at his frown all through his stay. But at his departure they are all in quivering ecstasy."

"Because of his leaving?" Mr. Veritsen inquired sardonically with something very like annoyance in his eyes.

"No, because of his largesse," she retorted, and something in her gamin-like smile flew to his own face and twisted his lips into an amused grin.

"You are the world's most famous goat-getter," he told her, "but please consider that I've untied mine and laid the leash in your capable hands. Go as far as you like."

"There isn't any farther," Lillian replied, wrinkling her nose at him. "You are such a dear, Phil, that there isn't much zest in baiting you. Besides, you should be sarcosanct to me. You belong to my checkered, dim-vistaed past, before Madge's time. No I'll not utter another teasing word. In fact, suppose we all double for clams for a while. This countryside is altogether too beautiful to mine, and Madge's idea of not wanting to talk is the right one. We'll chatter enough at luncheon."

"I already have subscribed to 'Madge's idea,'" Mr. Veritsen said, adroitly giving the impression that he was simply quoting Lillian's words. But there was that in his voice and eyes which told me that he deliberately had thus used my given name for the first time. I gave no indication that I had heard him beyond the perfunctory smile accorded a banal pleasantry, but I wondered if his audacity had not been prompted by Lillian's baiting. There was no manner of doubt in my mind that behind her apparently placating speech to him there had been a carefully-thought-out purpose to emphasize the fact that he belonged to another and older generation than mine. It was the thing which would most annoy him, and I knew that Lillian had used it with unerring knowledge of its effect. I knew also that she never would have been guilty of such malice to a courteous host if she had not noted and been angered for my sake by his persistent attempt to inject subtle flattering personalities to me into our conversation.

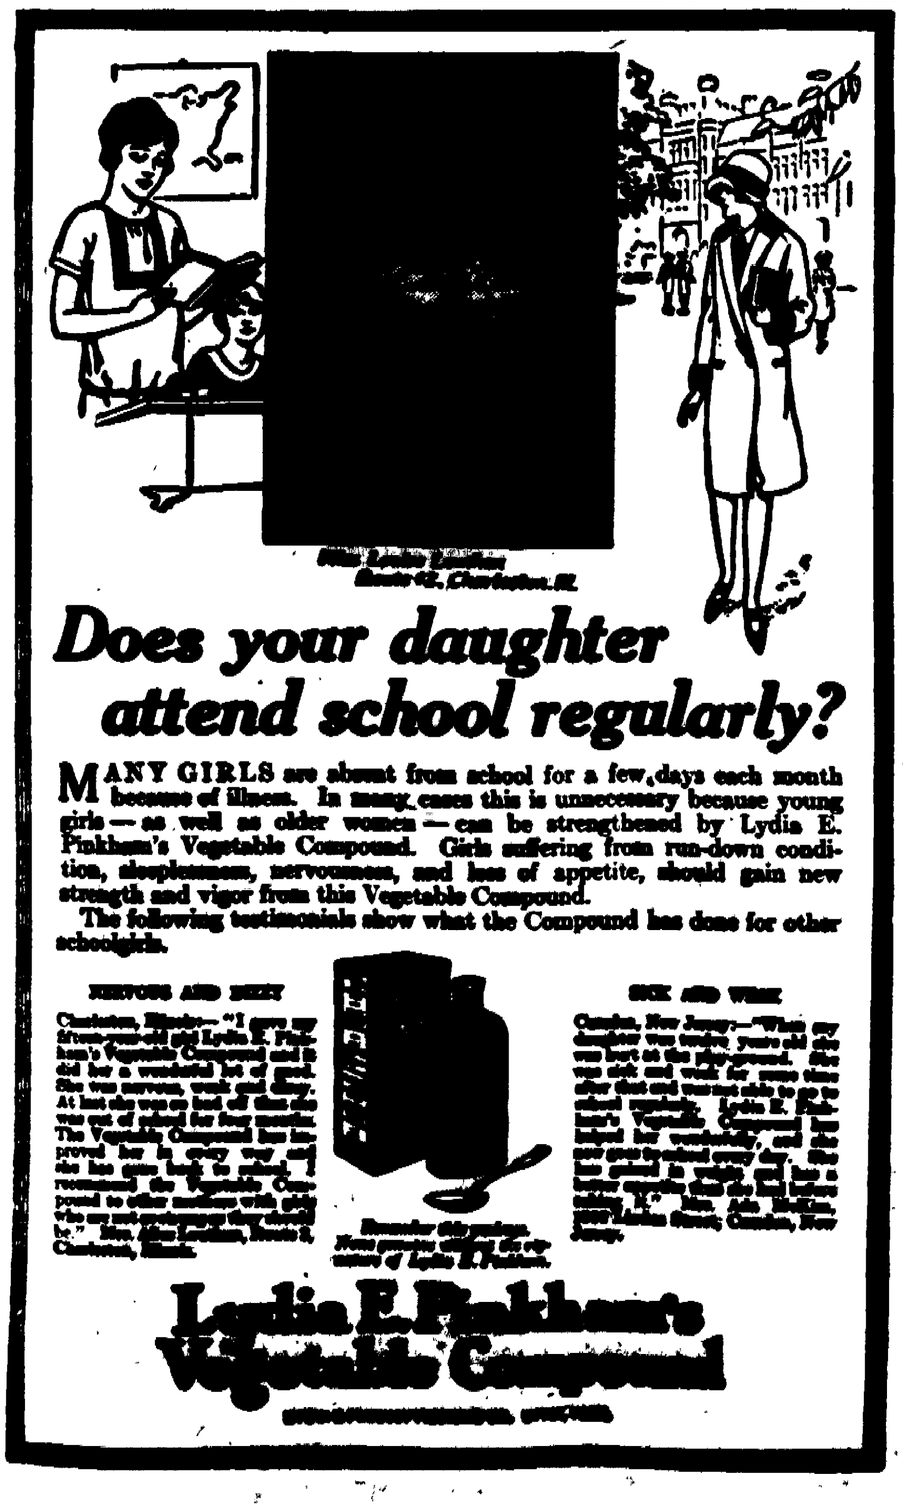
BIG FOUR ROUTE



Does your daughter attend school regularly?

MANY GIRLS are absent from school for a few days each month because of illness. In many cases this is unnecessary because young girls — as well as older women — can be strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Girls suffering from run-down condition, sleeplessness, nervousness, and loss of appetite, should gain new strength and vigor from this Vegetable Compound.

The following testimonials show what the Compound has done for other schoolgirls.

BEFORE AND NEXT

Charleston, Illinois—"I gave my fifteen-year-old girl Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did her a wonderful lot of good. She was nervous, weak and run down. At last she was so tired all the time she was out of school for four months. The Vegetable Compound has improved her in every way and she has gone back to school. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not strong as they should be." Mrs. Lydia Bastian, Route 2, Charleston, Illinois.

Remember this package. Always procure it from the store of Lydia E. Pinkham.

SICK AND WEAK

Camden, New Jersey—"When my daughter was twelve years old she was hurt at the playground. She was sick and weak for years after that and was not able to go to school regularly. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped her wonderfully, and she now goes to school every day. She is almost fifteen years old and has a splendid appetite. I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved my daughter's life." Mrs. Ada Hughes, 1016 Linden Street, Camden, New Jersey.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

When you meet the man you'd like to marry!

Chanel beads; manicure; an exquisite personal soap such as Camay—they aren't extravagances really. They're your right to enjoy as a happy and lovable woman!

YOU never can tell when you'll meet him!—the one man who really matters.

Any time—anywhere—he's likely to cross your path. On that holiday for which you're making such elaborate plans. At that tea you thought was going to be such an awful bore. On the golf links. Perhaps—if you're one of our modern, self-supporting girls—in your business office.

First impressions count!

Wherever it is, you've enough woman's intuition to know that it's the first impression that counts. Men are such rovers. And there are so few men in this poorly-proportioned universe. Only one and four-hundredths per cent to every woman in the United States, so the census-takers tell us, which leaves you almost no range of choice! If you don't make your impress right away, you may never see him again!

You can't—ever—let yourself get drab, colorless, tired-looking, shabby. You've got to look charming always! Your sweetest, freshest, most alluring self!

All the gay, bright, pretty things that accentuate your youth and feminine charm — you need them, of course! Chanel chokers of rose and jade; big, floppy hats; smart, hand-sewn English gloves; marcels . . . They aren't extravagances really. They're your right to enjoy as a happy and lovable woman. The world expects women to be charming and full of enjoyment, and youthful!

Camay—new! Exquisite! Perfected for loveliness!

Just to fit into the modern woman's scheme of things we've made Camay. Camay—the new luxury soap for face and hands!

You prize subtle refinement of quality. This delightful new soap—Camay—is made from precious essences of the world's finest oils—essences extracted by the most delicate refining methods and blended into a soap as pure and fine as you could ask. In perfection of quality Camay represents the last word.

Camay gives your skin such a delightfully refreshed feeling. Its lather is like white, thick-piled velvet, really—the bubbles are so fine and rich.

Fragrance sweet as Youth itself

It smells the way you like your soap to smell—faintly sweet, and fresh and clean, the fragrance of Youth, of all young, sweetly-flowering things!

And it looks the way you like your toilet soap to look—alabaster-white, and smooth, moulded to the slender hollow of your hands.

Altogether Camay is so charming that you'll want to try it today! Ask for it at your druggist's or your department store. Or look for Camay's dainty wrapper on your grocer's shelf of fine toilet soaps. 10 cents a cake, a low price for a toilet soap made as exquisitely as Camay is made.

What is CAMAY?

The makers of Camay have produced far more fine soap than any other soap makers in America. In Camay they planned to offer you the finest possible fragranced soap. How should they make it?

From every continent except Australia they gather the choicest oils. By delicate refining methods which could seem only from America's most complete soap-making experience, they extract the cream or essence of these finest oils. These precious essences they blend to make Camay.

With its rare smooth texture, its emollient-like whiteness, Camay lathes in gentle—the soap Youth would choose for her own personal use. Use a cake—for how short you would expect to pay for a soap so exquisite.

SECOND CAMP PERIOD OPENS AT SANDUSKY

Bucyrus "Y" Represented in Two Weeks' Outing by Four Boys

Bucyrus, July 6—At least four local boys will attend the second period of the Y. M. C. A. camp which opens today at Camp Sandusky, according to Earl Gordon, Bucyrus Y. M. C. A. secretary. Nine Bucyrus boys returned today from the first period of the camp.

The second period will last 10 days. Camp leadership for this period will be under Paul Barrett, Findlay; Frank Bartholomew, Tiffin, and Earl Gordon. "Y" boys from Tiffin, Findlay, Fostoria, Bellevue and Upper Sandusky will join the Bucyrus boys to make the total estimated enrollment reach approximately 45, Gordon said.

The fact that the number of Bucyrus boys who will attend the second period of the camp this year is somewhat less than the number attending for the corresponding period last year, may be attributed to the possible enrollment of a number of the local boys in the Harding Council Boy Scout camp.

At the end of the 10 day period of the camp which begins today, a number of Bucyrus young men will go to the camp for the week-end.

Ralph Perrot, Jr., Robert Love, William Saffel and Herman Rinker were among those who are registered.

CARDINGTON RESIDENCE IS NEARLY DESTROYED

Carpenter Family Experiences Fourth Fire Since Living in Village

Cardington, July 6—The fire department was called to the home of Harry Carpenter, E. Nichola-st, yesterday afternoon. Efforts to extinguish the blaze were practically fruitless and the building was almost completely destroyed.

Some contents on the first floor were removed. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

This makes the fourth fire the Carpenter family have experienced since residing in Cardington, having had a like experience when living in the Denzer property, W. Main-st, just a few months ago, and removing from that place to this, after having purchased it from the heirs of the late Joe Utter.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS CHINESE STUDENT'S TALK

Cardington, July 6—A good sized audience heard Rev. M. Y. Chang, a native Chinese give his lecture, "Chinese Customs and Christianity in China" at the union service in the M. E. Church Sunday night.

Rev. Chang is a graduate from Asbury College, Kentucky, this last spring and expects to take two years work in a theological seminary before returning to his native land.

LIQUOR CASE

James Bevan, Kenton, Fined $100 and Costs

Kenton, July 6—James Bevan, owner and manager of a garage on North Main-st, this city, was fined $100 and costs by Mayor H. C. Herren yesterday when he entered a guilty plea to charges of possessing intoxicating material.

His arrest followed a raid on his garage when a half pint of alleged corn whisky and a number of empty containers, were seized by officers.

The raid was conducted by O. D. Sheldon, Kenton police chief, and two state dry enforcement officers, Bragg and Kraft.

SCHOFIELD AND PAULY TO ADDRESS KIWANIANS

Mrs. Karl W. Schell, Marion Soloist, To Appear at Kenton

Kenton, July 6—Carl T. Schofield, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Schofield, Kenton, and veteran Y. M. C. A. worker who is visiting here after six years' service in northwest China and Karl B. Pauly, Columbus newspaper man, will be the principa speakers at the dinner meeting of Kiwanians tonight in Elk's home.

Mr. Schofield, as a close student of Chinese affairs and having just recently returned from that country, will discuss the present unsettled conditions there.

Having been a member of the official airplane escort that accompanied Colonel Charles Lindbergh from Dayton to St. Louis, soon after his successful trans-oceanic flight to Paris, Mr. Pauly will talk on "Lindbergh, The Man." During the flier's reception in St. Louis, the Ohio newspaper man had an opportunity of meeting him and of making a close, personal study.

An added feature on the program will be the appearance of Mrs. Karl W. Schell, Marion soloist. The dinner will be served at 6 o'clock.

ADMIRAL'S DAUGHTER TO WED

Among the Washington debutantes whose engagements have been announced recently is Miss Dorothy Evans Nulton. Miss Nulton, the daughter of Admiral and Mrs. Nulton, will wed Laurence Lee Wright Browning.

Boy to Paris on Nickel; Stays to See Sights

NEW YORK, July 6 — Herbert Ayram, the Brooklyn boy who started for Paris with a nickel to see Lindbergh, made the trip successfully, though he arrived after the flier had started for America.

But the officials who calculated on sending Herbert right home on the next boat also missed one guess, s.

Herbert is still in Paris, or was at the latest word. He may change his mind any moment and visit some other section of the world.

On June 2 Herbert, a 14-year-old DeWitt Clinton High school boy, asked a truckman on the French line pier to hold his books a little while. The truckman phoned the Ayram home the next day and said he was still holding the books and what would he do with them.

So Herbert's father, Mois Ayram, whose office is at 25 Broad Street, had a bunch to call up the French line and ask if any boys had sailed on the La Savoie which went out the day before.

Two days later they sent word to dad that the boy was on the boat bound to see his flying hero in Paris. So dad said: "Bring him back on the return trip and make him work his way. Give him the hardest work you can find."

That ought to teach him a lesson, dad said, that he would never forget.

But when the La Savoie got to Havre the captain was "easy" and he let Herbert go ashore to see if the earth felt any different in France than in Brooklyn.

Later on Herbert called on his two sisters who are attending school in Paris—much to their surprise. By this time he has probably been up in Eiffel Tower and out to Le Bourget field where Lindy landed, and other points of interest.

The steamship people seem to feel that Mr. Ayram ought to pay Herbert's passage home—if, and when, etc.

But at last reports Herbert was still seeing Paris.

QUITS SCHOOL POST FOR LANCASTER PASTORATE

Ransdall Resignation Leaves Vacancy in Ridgeway Teaching Force

Kenton, July 6—One vacancy in the personnel of the teaching force of the rural schools of Hardin County remains to be filled following the resignation of Frank C. Ransdall as superintendent of schools at Ridgeway.

The resigation of Ransdell was submitted to the Ridgeway board of education yesterday and will be accepted, it was learned today. No action in selecting a sucessor has been taken.

Professor Ransdell resigned his post in the Ridgeway schools to accept the pastorate in the Church of Christ, Lancaster. He graduated in the course of divinity at the University of Chicago.

A number of civic posts have been held by Prof. Ransdell during his six years residence in Ridgeway. He is serving as president of the town council, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, president of the farmers' institute and superintendent of the Disciple Sunday school. During the past year he also served as grange lecturer.

Junior Exposition Planned Fifteenth Annual Ashley Fair To Be Held Aug. 9-12;

Members of Board Making Rapid Strides in Completion of Arrangements; Speed Program Will Open Central Ohio Racing Program

Ashley, July 6—With the awarding of ride concessions to the F. E. Gooding Amusement Co., members of the local fair board are making rapid strides in completing plans for the fifteenth annual Ashley Fair and third annual Junior Fair to be held here Aug. 9-12.

C. E. Ashbrook, secretary of the fair, announced today that he is receiving applications daily for additional concessions on the grounds and that a sufficient field is available for a judicious selection.

Horsemen throughout Ohio and adjoining states are applying for entry blanks for events on the fair speed program. Ashley this year will open the Central Ohio fair racing season and it is expected that barn room for the speed stables will be at a premium. One hundred and twenty horses were at the track last year and with possibilities of this number being exceeded arrangements are being made for additional stalls.

Of especial interest among the usual exhibits this year will be the poultry and rabbit show housed in the new building erected by the county. Breeders of repute from outside Ohio have already signified their intention of entering the show. V. N. Ashton, of Lima, will judge exhibits in this department.

Secrecy surrounds activities of the local chapter of DeMolay which has been assigned the entertainment programs for Wednesday afternoon and the three nights of night fair. "Dad" Dunlap, of the chapter is directing the plans for the entertainment, the nature of which has not been divulged.

Jack Richards, well known promoter of carnival and fair attractions is in charge of the automobile show again this year.

Space Sold Out

The ground space for the Automobile Show and the Industrial Exhibit, has been increased 50 per cent over the amount of space used last year, and is practically sold out, so that it may be necessary to provide still more additional space.

The Industrial Exhibit will be more carefully placed this year in an exhibition tent adapted to this purpose, so that this feature will be a real attraction of the Fair.

V. E. Selanders has arranged for some lively competition for the newly housed Poultry Department. Mr. Selanders will enter for the owners, fowls from the accredited flocks producing eggs for local hatcheries, and also young birds.

The breeds to be entered are Leghorns, Buff and Barred Rocks and Rhode Island Reds. The limited number of the standard breeds handled is due, states Mr. Selanders, to the business of local hatcheries greatly exceeding expectations. The capacity for next season will be doubled, and the number of accredited flocks increased proportionately, with Anconas, Wyandottes and other standard breeds, and more varieties of the breeds.

BAPTIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Radnor, July 6—The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Baptist Church met Friday afternoon. NO PLEA MADE BY PRISONER BEFORE MAYOR

Harry Zillick, Toledo, Identified by Bank Teller and Customer

Galion, July 6—Harry Zillick, who has been under arrest here since Sunday as a suspect in the Commercial Savings bank robbery, had his preliminary hearing before Mayor H. R. Hartman at the city hall at 8 p. m. yesterday. Earlier in the afternoon Earl Clements, teller and D. M. Osborn, one of the bank's customers, who was on a business call when the hold-up occurred, identified Zillick as one of the five bandits.

Besides bank officials and city officers a number of interested citizens were present at the hearing. Details relating to Zillick's arrest were briefly discussed. A Toledo attorney was present representing Zillick and entering no plea the prisoner was bound over to the Crawford County Grand Jury under a bond of $50,000. Shortly after the hearing city policemen took Zillick to the county jail at Bucyrus, where he will be held until time for trial unless bond is furnished. It is possible that the case may not be brought up in court until early fall.

Arrested at Toledo

Zillick was arrested at the Toledo race track Sunday afternoon and held in the city prison there until Galion police arrived. In the search of his apartment which followed, although none of the stolen currency or bonds were discovered, a 44 calibre revolver of the exact type used in the robbery was found.

It is understood that detectives are on the trail of several other members of the hold-up gang and general opinion is to the effect that the entire group will probably be located.

SUFFERED AFTER EVERY MEAL DUE TO INDIGESTION

Stomach Misery and Kidney Troubles Banished by the New Konjola, Says Marysville Man

The surprising medical compound, Konjola, which The Konjola Man is explaining to crowds of people daily at the Stump Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., Marion, has not only become the sensation of this city, but is also the talk of cities and towns throughout this entire section. For instance, just a few days ago, Mr. A. D. Sherman, for 27 years a contractor of Marion, now living at Route 1, Marysville, Ohio, made the following statement about the remarkable recovery Konjola gave him:

MR. A. D. SHERMAN

"I had a severe case of stomach trouble about 13 years," said Mr. Sherman. "After every meal I was subject to indigestion and all kinds of miseries. My food would ferment and sour. This brought on spells of gas and bloating which made me short of breath and brought pains around my heart. I had dizzy spells and feelings like I would faint. The condition of my kidneys was just as bad as my stomach. I got up very often at nights, which broke up my rest, and always felt weak and sore across the region of my kidneys.

"I had been hearing of Konjola and what this medicine was doing in Marion. I gave it a trial and I want to tell you that I am feeling like I never had stomach or kidney trouble in my life. The indigestion pains are gone, appetite is increased and I never have gas bloating or heartburn like I suffered before. My kidneys are in the best condition they have been in years. Pains never center in my back any more and I don't have dizzy spells. The night rising is ended and there is a great difference in the way I feel each morning. Konjola has certainly cleansed my whole condition and made me feel years younger, so I gladly give it my indorsement."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump Pharmacy (Stump & Sons), 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.—Adv.

Epworth Seniors Nose Out Epworth No. 1 and Calvary Strengthens League Lead

Forest Lawn Wins Second Game in Second Round by Defeating St. Mary's; Presbyterians Victims of Calvary No. 1 Outfit

IT took them 10 innings to do it, but the Central Christians last night nosed out the slipping Wesley M. E. team, 2 to 1, and incidentally stepped into a tie for third place with their victims in the first Sunday School League.

And while that performance was taking place in the first division of the league, Calvary No. 1 was strengthening its hold on first place by trimming the Presbyterians, 10 to 4, and Epworth No. 1 was sliding toward the Central Christians and Wesley M. E. by losing to the Epworth Seniors, 2 to 1.

In the meantime, Forest Lawn, an outfit that was first heard from last week after going through the entire first round without a victory, again swung into action and this time downed St. Mary's, 6 to 5

League Standing Mixed

And as a result of all the upsets and close games last night, the first Sunday School league standing has become a rather jumbled affair, with Calvary No 1 on top with seven victories and two defeats, far ahead of its nearest opponent, Epworth No 1.

Rank and Bumgardner pitched for Central Christians last night in their victory over the Wesley crew. Corwin was on the mound for the losers. Mayer crossed the plate with the winning run in the first of the tenth and Wesley was unable to top the count in their turn to bat during that frame.

Three walks and a hit in the last of the seventh resulted in the downfall of Epworth No. 1 last night with Epworth Seniors the victors. Snare, who got on base via the free route, scored the winning run. Griffin pitched for Epworth No. 1 and Rice did the mound work for the winners.

Calvary Wins

Calvary No. 1 had little trouble with Presbyterians. They collected 15 hits off Verberg for 10 counters while Gruber allowed only five bingles and four runs.

Forest Lawn is determined not to finish the season in the cellar and may pull some surprises among the league leaders before the second round is completed. It trimmed St. Mary's last night for its second consecutive victory. Winters pitched for Forest Lawn and Frericks was on the mound for St. Mary's.

GOLF STROKES EQUAL

Cleveland, July 6—A special match of the unusual accomplishments in golf, was held under the realty of J. K. Dickson, Cleveland, four ruley. Dickson, playing in a foursome at Shaker Heights Tuesday, made a 450 yard hole in three strokes. Shaker has a full mile-to-par of 300 yards, after getting a score of 320 from the tee. Dickson shaped the ball into the cup on the perfect approach—a 2 on a par-3 hole.

Epworth No. 2 Trims Lee-st. Presbyterians

LUTHERANS WIN OVER CALVARY; BAPTISTS COP

United Brethren Defeat First Reformed; No Upsets

THERE were no upsets in the second Sunday School league games last night. All favorites won.

The Lutherans trimmed Calary No. 2, 8 to 0; Epworth No. 2 defeated Lee-st Presbyterians, 3 to 0; Trinity Baptists walloped Presbyterians, 14 to 2, and United Brethren swamped First Reformed, 17 to 5.

While the Lutherans and Baptists are racing ahead at full speed, the slipping Lee-st Presbyterians have been overtaken by that up-and-coming Epworth No. 2 outfit. Last night's game turned the trick. Epworth went wild in the sixth frame and scored three runs to show their superiority.

Gamble Wins

Gamble, pitching for the Epworth crew, allowed only two hits and shut out the Lee-st players. Epworth received only five hits but one of them was a three-bagger and another a double. C. Burke pitched a great game for the Lee-st outfit but was unable to hold down the determined Epworth lads.

The Lee-st aggregation and Epworth team is tied for second place with the Lutherans and Baptists in a first place deadlock.

Jones allowed Presbyterians only four hits and two runs while Trinity touched Pfeiffer for 10 hits and 14 tallies. It was the eighth victory of the season for the Baptists.

LAZZERI SLAMS OUT HOME RUN IN NINTH

Struts His Stuff with Score Tied at 6 to 6; Yanks Beat Senators

New York, July 6—Antonio Lazzeri, the Mussolini of the national pastime, waited patiently all afternoon for Lou and the Babe to do their stuff but with two out in the ninth and the score tied at 6 to 6, he concluded that it was about time to speak for himself. His conversation consisted of a home run, which gave the Yankees their third straight victory over the Senators and a lead of 12 1-2 games as they started west. It was Antonio's twelfth homer of the season.

In the meantime, the Browns were avenging past indignities at the hands of the Tigers by reaping 20 hits for a 17 to 8 victory. Five homers were made during the game.

The other St. Louis club, the collapsing Cardinals, dropped their sixth straights as Pittsburgh hammered Reinhart, McGraw, Keen and H. Bell for a 14 to 2 rout. The game placed the Cards 5 1-2 games behind the leading Pirates.

However, the capering Cubs only were kept out of first place by the Pirates' victory, for McCarthy's boys outlasted the Reds to win by 8 to 5. Percy Jones, relieving Osborn, made his first appearance on the mound since early in the year and pitched well.

The Red Sox apparently had to wait until they got the Athletics before they found a team they could beat. Connie Mack's ancients hammered out a tie in the first half of the ninth off Welzer and Harriss but the Red Sox came back against Grove with singles by Shaner and Todt and a double by Regan and it was all off.

Lester Sweetland, a rookie from Spartanburg, S. C., pitched the Phillies to a 5 to 4 victory over the Braves, the Phils getting four runs in the last three innings against Genewich and scoring the tying and winning runs in the ninth.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JULIO MORTIMER LEWIS

Like I told Jubilee when we woke up this morning. I was glad it wasn't our house that burnt up on the Fourth, but I would be glad to see a fire every day because a fire is fun. There are dogs barking and women screaming, and sparks flying and firemen hurrying around with the hoopenladder, and then the excitance pays the people that own the house and everyone is happy.

He come down so hard he went "Whump!"

Firemen were all away at a picture show when their house caught fire, and when the firemen got there and went to break in they found that there were iron bars at all of the windows to keep out burglars or something and they were chopping at them with their axes and hollering at each other, and one of them was doing most of the hollering and running around whilst the others done all the work, and he went around on one side of the house, and then here he come charging back again like someone had stepped on his exhilarator and all at once he ran into a wire clothes line and two of his teeth went down his neck and both of his feet went up in the air, and he come down on the ground so hard that he went "Whump!" and then he got up and tried to find his teeth, and he looked at the clothes-line and began to say things about anyone that would put up a wire clotheline, and he began with their grandfathers and said things about both sides of their families clear down to their grandchildren, and he was so good that people forgot a bout the fire and all gathered around and listened to him, and my grandfather seemed to be quite interested, and someone was hollering all the time and we didn't pay it any mind and it was the chief and all at once he turned the hose on the crowd around the fireman and the streak of water knocked them every which-way, and the last I saw of it my grandfather was trying to get at the chief, but every time he would get near the cheif would hit him with the stream of water and knock him so far away that he would have a long walk getting back, and just then my mother grabbed me and made me come away because of what my grandfather was saying. He was trying to say more things than the fireman that tried to bite the clothesline.

Nothing happened today. We all went over and raked the ashes around till we were as black as niggers trying to find nickels of whatever was in the house when it burnt up, and my ant came over and took me home and washed me all over. Jubilee is lucky then he is a dog.

Peter's Adventures

A Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

ONE HOUR FOR PLAY

If ever an animal was proud of himself it was B. Z. Beaver. He stood upright up on his hind legs balancing himself with his broad flat tail and waved a short front paw toward the water.

"Yes sir, I am master not only in this pond but in any lake or river where I choose to go. Oh, I'll admit that there are other Four-Foots who are larger and fiercer than I am and who would beat me by their brute force. But when it comes to a question of matching wits, I win, I win every single time.

"I am the cleverest creature in Animal Land. Even Cutie Fox himself can't trick me! And I'll bet there is no Four-Foot who can work half so much, or get half so much done as yours truly!" Again Beaver patted himself.

"You hate yourself, Mr. Beaver, don't you?" asked Peter and laughed. Beaver dropped down on all fours and looked up at him in surprise.

"Hate myself! Well, I should say not," declared he. "Why should I when I am smart and industrious? What do you mean?"

Peter laughed again.

"I really mean that you like yourself," chuckled he. "That you like yourself very much indeed, too. Just a different way of saying it, that's all—a little joke on you. But look! While I have been talking to you the sun has set. What a shame!"

"Why is it a shame?" demanded Beaver sharply. "I think twilight is the nicest time of all."

"I like it, too," replied the boy, "but I am disappointed. Ever since you said you were an architect and builder of dams I have wanted to see you at work and thought maybe I should have a chance to this very afternoon. Now, it is growing dark—twilight never lasts for long—and soon it will be too dusky for you to see your paw before you. Oh, dear! I am so sorry I didn't come to the pond earlier!"

Peter sighed, but Beaver slapped his fat sides and laughed merrily.

"Ha! Ha! Ha! He! He! He! What stupids you Two-Legs are! Don't look so sad or I shall chuckle myself hoarse. To think you have lived within stone's throw of this pond so long and have never discovered that I do all my work at night. Say, have you ever seen me before?"

"Not close to, no!" replied the boy. "Just as it was growing dark one evening as I was bringing Dobbin down to the pond for a drink I saw you swimming around and around something out in the middle of the stream—looked to me like a heap of brush."

"Heap of brush, indeed! My home!" declared Beaver. "But we'll not talk about that now. You said it was early evening when you first caught a glimpse of me, and it is early evening now and so it will be whenever you see me abroad.

"Let me tell you something young fellow. I work at night. All these hours of darkness when other folks sleep I am up and doing—fetching sticks, moulding houses, and nobody interfers with my plans or hinders me at my tasks—they are safe in bed.

"When daylight comes I am dead tired that I go home and sleep. Oh, how soundly I sleep! I belief a tree could fall into the water and I'd never hear it. Then something whispers to me that it is the hour before sunset—time to take my stroll. So I wake up and come out. This is my one hour of play in all the twenty-four."

Next: "Not Built for Company."

TELLS DANGERS OF GALL STONES HEPATIC TORPIDITY

Victims of Gall Bladder Trouble, Inactive Liver and Bowels Should Watch These Danger Signs

Dizziness, headache, shortness of breath, distress after eating, gas in stomach and bowels, pressure or sharp pains in right side that often shoot through to the back, coated tongue, bad breath, lack of ambition, weakness, nervousness and nights of restless misery caused by bad dreams or inability to sleep.

These are symptoms of poisonous waste matter in the system often called auto-intoxication) indicating improper bowel action, hepatic torpidity or gall bladder trouble—and when they come to folks in middle life they should be checked at once, before the dangers of more serious ailments like gall stones and high blood pressure are developed.

In the opinion of the writer, one of the best things in the world, for conditions of this kind is the inexpensive home use of "Klax-Ko" Tablets, which Bradley's Drug Store or any other good druggist supply on a binding guarantee to refund their cost, if easily noticeable beneficial results are not obtainable inside of a week! Don't wait until your entire system is polluted with poisonous waste or until gall bladder inflammation or gall stones makes a dangerous operation necessary, but start the use of "Klax-Ko" Tablets today. If "Klax-Ko" does not help you, its use will not cost you a penny.—Adv.

NEW MARKERS ARE PLACED ON STATE ROUTES

U. S. Highways Designated Under New Federal-State Plan

Installation of new highway markers through Central Ohio counties, including Marion county, in accordance with a new plan recently adopted by federal and state officials, will be completed this week under direction of Grover Cleveland Bruce of this city, division engineer of the state highway department.

Black and white marker plates are being installed in place of the yellow markers which have been in use in the past. A force of approximately 60 men, covering the territory in state cars and trucks, is handling the work in this district. The work was started yesterday morning.

17 Highways Renumbered

Changes in the marking system were necessitated by an agreement to assign state numerals to all United States highways over their entire routes. As a result of this agreement, entered into by state and federal officials, it became necessary to change the numbers of many state highways to eliminate duplication.

The state highway department decided to remove all of the old yellow marker plates and install the new black and white design so that a uniform system would be maintained.

Numbers of five routes passing through Marion County have been changed as a result of the new arrangement. The changes are as follows:

Two U. S. Routes

Upper Sandusky and Marion-rd from Upper Sandusky to U. S. Route No. 23; Marion and Delaware-rd from No. 4 to U. S. route No. 23, Kenton, Marion and Cleveland from No. 10 to U. S. route No. 20, Marion and Marysville-rd from No. 38 to state route No. 4; Marion and Mt. Gilead-rd from No. 42 to state route No. 95.

No. 23 and No. 30 are the only U. S. highways passing through the county. Under the new marker plan it is expected that motorists will find it possible to follow interstate and intercontinental highways as all of these routes will be designated by the same numerals over their entire length.

Markers for both state and federal highways in Ohio are of similar design, both being white shields with black lettering.

HACKETT SERVICES ARE HELD AT BUCYRUS CHURCH

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Hackett, widow of John Hackett, were held at 8:30 o'clock this morning at the Holy Trinity Church at Bucyrus. Burial was in the Bucyrus cemetery.

Mrs. Hackett died at 3:35 Sunday afternoon of infirmities of age after an illness of six months at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Master, 513 Oak st.

SURVEYOR IMPROVING

Continued improvement was reported today in the condition of County Surveyor Cecil R. Lowens, who is ill of flu at his home on Wildwood-et. He was taken ill last Saturday while with his family at a hotel at Connor's Landing, Indian Lake.

STATE LEFTHAND GOLF TOURNAMENT AT LIMA

Spring Brook Course To Be Scene of Novel Affair

Lima, O., July 6—Lefthand golfers of Ohio will cavort over the beautiful 18 hole Spring Brook course here Thursday and Friday, July 28 and 29, when the first state left hand golf tournament will be held. Entries already are pouring in and it is expected that this affair will attract at least 200 portsiders.

The tourney is being sponsored by the Lima News and the B. F. Repp Co., sporting goods distributors, and is not for profit. An entry fee of $3 is charged and pays all expenses including a dinner for visiting golfers at the close of play.

The tournament will be 72 holes, with medal play prevailing. It will be strictly amateur with a beautiful trophy for the winner. In addition there will be a large number of valuable merchandise prizes which will permit a long list of entrants to participate in the winnings.

Invitations have been sent to all clubs in Ohio urging lefhanders to participate in the play. Spring Brook is one of the sportiest courses in this part of the state. It has beautiful fairways and magnificent bent greens, which will be in the height of perfection for the tournament. The course will be turned over to the visitors for the two days.

TWO BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED BY CITY CLERK

STOCK PRICES REFLECT EASIER MONEY MARKET

Increase in Investment Buying Feature of Exchange Session

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks, strong. Industrial stocks, firm. Domestic bonds, firm. Foreign bonds, irregular. Call money, 4 1-2 per cent. Grain, irregular. Copper, firm. Oil, irregular. Cotton, fairly steady. Rubber, steady. Sugar, steady. Pig iron, steady. Foreign exchange, irregular.

New York, July 7—Stock prices today reflected the easier tone in the money market, with the 4 per cent. call loan rate; the increase in investment buying, which is part of the program of the July reinvestment period, the confidence of the financial district over the immediate future of American business, and, to some extent the covering of shorts, which became urgent as the day advanced.

A 40 per cent. increase in the volume of stock transactions over the first three hours was an encouraging factor from the bullish standpoint, since it represented the willingness of stock traders to purchase stocks on a rising market. The electrical manufacturing companies' stocks were easily the leaders in this new forward movement, though the spurt in American Can was indicative of a prompt response to the favorable comments on the company's current operations and profits.

Houston Oil's 6-point jump to 165 and Baldwin's new advance to record-breaking prices were important incidents from the speculative view-point. Baldwin's floating supply of outstanding stock has been reduced to a minimum by the insistent buying of the stock by powerful financial interests, and the large short interest that has been trapped in Baldwin makes it an exceedingly dangerous medium for speculation.

The Iron Age's mid-week survey of the steel industry pointed out considerable irregularity in present operations, as well as an unsatisfactory schedule of prices of steel products. Production of pig iron was sharply curtailed in June, according to this report, the loss in blast furnaces last month being thirteen. Current freight car loadings were reported satisfactory.

Wall Street awaited with considerable interest the marking down of call loan rate to 4 per cent., signalizing the passing of the mid-year strain in the money market. When that signal was given shortly after the noon hour, the whole market surged forward in a new upward movement, lead by a number of the old-line industrial stocks, which have long held the reputation of seasoned campaigners in bull markets.

Japan Throws Geneva Parley Into Even More Acute Deadlock

CANNOT ACCEPT NEW DEMANDS OF GREAT BRITAIN

Will England's Plan on "Essentials" Would Mean Building Program

Washington, July 6—The Geneva naval conference is dangerously near the crisis.

The result was the sudden withdrawal today by official spokesmen, who, although they admitted they were disappointed, refused flatly to say whether it is hopeful that an agreement may be reached.

Privately, however, only a breakdown by Great Britain in her demand for approximately 400,000 tons of cruiser strength can save the conference. For it was emphasized here that this government will under no circumstances sign an agreement at Geneva which will establish a 600,000-ton cruiser ratio for the United States and Great Britain. This is twice the maximum tonnage proposed by the American government at the outset of the conference, and, in the opinion of administration officials, would destroy the whole American program.

Geneva, July 6—Japan raised objections at the tri-partite naval conference today that made the deadlock over Great Britain's cruiser demands even more acute.

The Japanese delegation allowed it to become known that they can not accept Britain's "essentials" cruiser demands or the compromise proposals of the United States because either plan would force Japan into a big cruiser-building program. The United States has made it plain that it would sometime a maximum British tonnage of 400,000 which is 100,000 tons more than the maximum for cruisers contained in the original American proposal.

Meanwhile, however, the United States has indicated that its policy would be to strive to place the limitation well below 400,000 tons.

500,000 Tons Essential

W. C. Bridgeman, head of the British delegation, told newspaper men that the latest British cruiser demands—about 500,000 tons, divided into 71 ships—are essential to an adequate defense of the British Isles. He insisted that England has no intention of maintaining a force which could be regarded as a threat to any power.

He insisted that Great Britain had the right to take adequate means for defense saying that it is "within our rights to insure we know better than other nations what are our needs." He said that from the conclusion of the war until 1923 Britain built but 11 war craft of all types, as compared with 300 constructed by the four other naval powers.

"That should be proof that Great Britain has not started an armament race," he said, adding, with emphasis, that the British type of cruisers of 7,500 tons constitute merely a defensive arm.

Sketch Sub Agreement

It was learned on good authority that the experts have reached an agreement to limit the submarine programs of the powers, irrespective of the total tonnage suggested at the start of the conference. Nevertheless, it is the opinion of the experts that Great Britain, the United States and Japan are entitled to a large number of small submarines for defensive purposes.

The Japanese, emphasizing the need of submarines for their defensive purposes, had argued that there be no limit set upon the number of submarines under 700 tons that they should build.

Hugh Gibson, head of the American delegation, told friends that he preferred to return to Brussels immediately rather than agree to an increase in armaments. Meanwhile the delegates carried on private conversations, no meeting of the experts having been scheduled for today.

No kind of change in economic rules will help the incompetent.

OBITUARY

Milliser—Catherine Rebecca, daughter of James and Rachel Abrams Brannon Rider was born in Delaware County, Ohio, Jan 4 1850, and passed away at her late residence, 477 South Main Street Marion, Ohio, June 17, 1927, aged 77 years 5 months and 13 days.

She was united in marriage to Barney Franklin Milliser at Marion, Ohio, March 8, 1877, and had been a widow for the past ten years, her husband having passed away at the Milliser residence on South Main Street March 31, 1917. She was preceded also in death by two daughters, Lulu and Lowea Arelle, one brother John Abrams Brannon of Spokane, Washington, and two half brothers Daniel Bourne Rider and George F. Rider of Marion.

She is survived by an only daughter, Mrs. Beckine Milliser, director of public school music in the Pipestone Boarding School, Pipestone, Minnesota, two half sisters, Mrs. Lee Reed and Mrs. W. L. Falk of Ashley, Ohio, and one half brother, Mr. William B. Rider of Easton, Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Milliser accepted the Christian faith and united with the church at the early age of twelve years uniting at that time with the Old Blue Presbyterian Church in Delaware County, Ohio; later with her husband she became a member of Pleasant United Brethren Church south of Marion and retained her membership with that church until it was closed to service in 1919 when her membership was transferred to the Methodist Episcopal Church of this city, where she remained a devoted attendant and faithful member up till her late death. She was a member of the Carhart Sunday-School Class, the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society and the Anna Gordon Branch of the W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Milliser was a woman of rare and exceptional qualities. An ardent Christian first and always, a thorough student and a constant reader. Her aims, ambitions and endeavors were ever a standard the highest to be attained, and in her daily life honesty and integrity were irreproachable. Order—the order that comes with the sweet serenity of right living—this order with her was law, and one immediately sensed through the peace and quiet atmosphere in which she lived—her daily attunement with the Infinite as one inhales the fragrance of the rose.

Her mind and her energy never aged and she never murmured if the days were long. She was active and interested and thoroughly informed up until her last brief illness. She attended a lecture at the Oakland Heights Church on Monday evening, June 13, with relatives and retired in apparently perfect health. Tuesday morning she was too ill to arise and gradually grew worse until her death Friday morning.

Gentle hands that never wearied toiling in love's vineyard sweet
Does that seemed forever cheers when our eyes they chanced to meet
There shall never be another quite so tender, quite so true
As the patient little mother, gone today from out our view
Yet in memory she is living, and shall live still on and on Fonder as the days grow nearer to our meeting in Heaven's beyond.

PYTHIANS WIN AND LOSE AT LIMA MEETING

Canby Lodge Victorious in Page Rank Contest; Whetstone Lodge Defeated

Both victory and defeat went to Marion County lodges in the Knights of Pythias degree work contest held at Lima recently, according to unofficial information received by members of the order here today.

The judges have picked Canby Lodge, No. 51 of this city as winner in the page rank competition and Whetstone Lodge of Waldo lost in the knight rank contest, the advance announcement stated. Both of the Marion County lodges competed with Lima lodge.

Expect Copy

An official copy of the decision is expected within a few days. There were three judges, all past grand chancellors of the order.

Should this report of the outcome of the contest be officially verified, Canby and Lima lodges will represent this district in a contest for statewide honors in which degree teams from all parts of Ohio will participate.

The final state competition is scheduled to be held within the next few weeks. It will be under the direction of C. C. Williams of Columbus, grand chancellor.

Canby Lodge held its weekly meeting last night and in addition to transacting routine business arranged to confer the rank of page at the meeting next Tuesday night. As soon as official confirmation of the district contest decision is received, Canby degree team will start rehearsals in preparation for the state competition.

OPEN INVESTIGATION TO FIX TRAIN CRASH BLAME

Charges Made in Collision That Killed Five and Injured Twenty-Two

Harrerstraw, N. Y., July 6—An investigation to fix responsibility for the railroad wreck at Iona Island, in which five were killed and 22 injured, was started today by Coroner W. A. Dutcher of Rockland County.

Charges that the engineer of the passenger train ran past block signals set against him, and that the brakeman of the rear end of the freight train failed to throw a switch and signal danger to the passenger train are the outstanding points of the inquiry.

Preliminary investigation has shown that the New York, Ontario & Western passenger train carrying passengers from the Catskills to New York, ran through an open switch a quarter of a mile south of the Bear Mountain Bridge and ran into the rear end of a switch train made up of empty freight and passenger cars of the west shore branch of the New York Central.

The first car of the Ontario & Western train was a baggage car riding higher than the day coaches, and it shot into the air tearing through the first passenger car for 20 feet, killing and maiming passengers.

TEN-CENT STORE HEAD'S SON TO MARRY PIANIST

Romance Develops When Young Lawler Visits Store and Sees Girl

Springfield, Mass., July 6—A romance between a pretty pianist in a five and 10 cent store and the wealthy son of the president of the nationwide chain of S. S. Kresge stores, was revealed here today with the announcement of the engagement of Miss Ethel Brent of this city to Chester Lawler of East Orange, N. J.

Lawler, son of C. C. Lawler, president of the Kresge string, met Miss Brent, the girl's parents revealed, while he was visiting the local store with his father. The girl at that time held a position at the music counter of the local five and 10 cent emporium.

Announcement of the engagement was made by the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Brent. The couple, they said, will be married Aug. 1 and will live in East Orange.

HEALTH CAMP OPENED WITH 28 ENROLLED

15 Boys and 13 Girls Will Be Kiwanis Club Guests Two Months

Twenty-eight happy children left the city yesterday for a two months stay at the Kiwanis fresh air camp on the Owens farm four miles south of the city on the Gooding pk.

The day, long looked for by the children, had arrived and early yesterday afternoon, 15 boys and 13 girls, selected by school nurses and by Health Commissioner W. J. Weiser, as most in need of the fresh air and nourishing food of the camp, were bundled into automobiles belonging to members of the club and others and were taken to the camp.

Because of some misunderstanding, the program which had been planned to accompany the opening of the camp this year was not carried out. Immediately upon their arrival the children donned the camp uniform and the daily program which will govern the camp for the next two months was started.

Mrs. Clara Geer, Red Cross nurse, will be in charge of the camp and the entire personnel will be the same as last year. Miss Harriet Pfeiffer, camp dietetian was called to Cleveland Monday by the death of her father but will take up her work at the camp upon her return. Her place is being taken by Miss Lucy Todd, of Long Beach, Cal. who has been assistant dietetian at the City hospital.

Miss Doris Bondley will be playground instructor and Oscar Hittenrauch all-around-man at the camp.

THREE YOUTHS FINED ON DISORDERLY CHARGE

Frank Reed, Harry Jones and Walter McMurray, arrested on W. Church at early Sunday morning in connection with the theft of a raincoat from a car Saturday night, were each fined $10 and costs on a disorderly conduct charge when arraigned in municipal court yesterday. They were ordered held until the fines were paid. Kenneth Hathaway, 16, who was arrested with the three older men, and who was taken to the Boys Industrial home was given a suspended fine and ordered to return to the home in Galion by Juvenile Judge J. B. McNeal.

RESCUE 41 INCUBATOR BABIES FROM FLAMES

Four Small Hotels and Eight Concessions Sustain $200,000 Damage

Atlantic City, N. J. July 6—Forty-one incubator babies on display in an amusement concession were rescued in a blaze here which laid waste half a block along the boardwalk, destroying four small hotels and eight amusement concessions and causing damage estimated today at about $200,000.

Fashionably dressed guests from the large hotels nearby aided firemen and police in effecting the rescue of the infants. The fire occurred directly opposite the famous million dollar Atlantic City Pier.

More than 500 guests in the six hotels within the scope of the flames were forced to flee. Most of them escaped with only the clothes they were wearing and lost all other personal effects.

CARNIVAL COMPANY EMPLOYE PAYS FINE

Dave Gault Changes Plea to Resisting Officer Charge

Fine of $25 and costs for resisting an officer and for interfering with an officer in the performance of his duty was drawn late yesterday afternoon by Dave Gault when he appeared in municipal court and changed a plea of not guilty to guilty.

Gault was arrested at the carnival grounds on E. Fairground late Saturday night when he attempted to interfere with the arrest of Jake Walbondian, another employe of the carnival company. Walmbandian, who was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge, forfeited a bond of $10 put up for his appearance in court yesterday afternoon. Gault pleaded not guilty when arraigned in municipal court yesterday morning.

MARION MAN ELECTED HEAD OF LICENSE BOARD

J. W. Jacoby Chosen President of Realty Examiners at Organization Session

J. Wilbur Jacoby of this city was elected president of the state board of real estate examiners at its first executive session held in Columbus yesterday and the board adopted a code of ethics which will be observed in making decisions on membership and applications.

Election of Jacoby as president was in accordance with a program unofficially outlined by the board at a conference held more than a week ago. Cyrus Locher, state director of commerce, is chief administrative officer.

The board plans to be in session several days to complete organization details and plans for enforcement of the new law which will require all commission real estate dealers in the state to obtain licenses.
